Political Chips Are Down Tonight

By M. L. ST. JOHN.

On the eve of Georgia's biggest election day, gubernatorial candidates will make their final appeals today for support from Georgia's one million voters.

As the State closes one of its most hectic governorship races, Candidate Jimmie Carmichael will speak four times, and Candidates Eugene Talmadge and E. D. Rivers each will deliver three addresses.

Carmichael speaks at 11 a. m. at Jonesboro, and at 5 p. m. in Thomaston. His final radio broadcast will be delivered over WSB from the courthouse at Barnesville at 8 p. m., a 15-minute talk. At 8:30 p. m., Carmichael will give a campaign speech in the Barnesville Park.

Talmadge will make one stump and two radio speeches. He talks at 11 a. m. at Dawsonville. He will broadcast over WSB at 8:15 p. m. and over WAGA at 9 p. m.

Rivers will give campaign speeches at Nashville at 2 p. m., Moultrie at 5:30 p. m. and Valdosta at 8 p. m.

An airplane dropping leaflets urging people to vote was sent out over Georgia yesterday and will continue its flight over the State today. The leaflets designed to "Get Out the Vote" are signed by Jimmie Carmichael. The aerial campaign is part of the program by the Student League for Good Government.

Latest unofficial and incomplete registration figures showed a total of 1,071,120 voters. Of this number, 137,897 are Negroes.

Candidates for the newly-created post of Lieutenant-Governor also are closing out their campaigns today. Six candidates are seeking this $2,000-a-year job of presiding over the Senate. They are: Belmont Dennis, of Covington; Spence Grayson, of Savannah; Marvin Griffin, of Bainbridge; Frank Gross, of Toccoa; L. N. Huff, of Atlanta, and M. E. Thompson, of Millen.

Overshadowed by the red-hot Governor's battle are the campaigns for 10 other Statehouse posts which will be ended today. Judge Hugh MacIntyre, of Thomasville, of the Court of Appeals, is being opposed for renomination by Earl Butler, of Macon, and Robert Church, of Atlanta. Attorney-General Eugene Cook, of Dublin, is opposed by Irwin Kimzey, of Cornelia. Secretary of State Ben Fortson, Jr., of Washington, is opposed by Napier Burson, of Decatur. School Superintendent M. Rivers 3d, Is 'Opinion' Of Solons

Ex-Gov. Eurith D. Rivers last night took exception to a story by Gladstone Williams, Constitution staff correspondent in Washington, reflecting conversations he had held with members of the Georgia congressional delegation.

In the story, printed in Monday's Constitution, Williams reported he had discussed the Governor's race with some of the "keenest political minds" in the delegation and it was the consensus Carmichael would win, with Rivers running a poor third.

Rivers promptly wired all members of the delegation declaring Williams had "virtually quoted" them that he was out of the race and demanding an explanation.

This, of course, was not true.

Williams did not quote a single Senator or Representative directly.

Seven of Georgia's 10 Congressmen have opposition and naturally would carefully refrain from making any statement which might alienate the supporters of any other candidate, however small that candidate's following might be.

In his broadcast last night, Rivers read wires from some of the Georgia delegation, denying that they had issued any statement on the gubernatorial race.

This is true.

They have not made any statement and they have not been quoted as doing so.

Nevertheless, they do have opinions on the outcome and the fact remains that some of the keenest political minds in the Georgia delegation still think Carmichael will win, with Rivers running a poor third.

SOUGHT MAY'S HELP—Joseph Freeman, Washington agent for the Erie Basin-Batavia Metal Products Companies, told the Mead Committee in Washington Monday he had asked Rep. Andrew J. May, Democrat, Kentucky, for business help six or eight times in difficulties.

Munitions Maker Scores Garssons

WASHINGTON, July 15—(UP)—Allen B. Gellman, President of one of the 16 Midwestern "paper empire" firms under scrutiny by Senate war-profits investigators, testified Monday that he "would rather be dead" than do further business with the founders of the munitions-making combine.

"When my good name is associated with these kind of people—people with the kind of backgrounds that have been described here—I decided it was high time to cut loose and fight my own battle," he said.

His statement was made before the Senate War Investigating Committee after he emphatically denied that the network of companies was created to conceal excess war profits.

Declaring that he would not have joined the combine if he had known then what he knows now, he testified he has "cut loose" from the Garsson Brothers—Henry and Murray—who organized the $78,000,000 chain.

"I feel deeply humiliated," he added. "I feel that I was misled by appearances."

Previously, a plush-salaried Washington representative of the Illinois group told the Committee in a halting, rasping voice that he sought Rep. Andrew J. May's aid whenever the combine had difficulty with the Government.

Joseph F. Freeman, who received $70,000 in 1944 for his operations in behalf of the Garsson interests, testified he contacted May "probably six or eight times—maybe more."

"Whenever we reached a point where we were having difficulty," he said, "I would call and ask him could I see him."

Freeman, who called himself the "Little Fellow Down Below" replied, "I believe that's right," when Chairman James M. Mead, Democrat, New York, asked if the Kentucky Congressman and Chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee "always interceded" when asked to do so.

Gellman read a prepared statement which described his Company—Erie Basin Metal Products Company—as "just another pebble on the beach" which performed an "outstanding" job making shells for the Army.

He then was questioned about Benjamin Franklin Fields, portly ex-convict accused of attempt to bribe a Committee member.

"I never heard of him before in all my life," he shouted.

He added that he felt "utterly lost" after reading newspaper accounts of the charges brought against Fields by Sen. Hugh B. Mitchell, Democrat, Washington.

Mead interrupted to characterize Fields as "a professional high-pressure lobbyist of the worst

Price Control Hopes Brighter As Bill Heads for Conference

CATTLE AT HIGHEST MARKS

Labor Unions Plan Protest Strike Over Steady Increase in Prices

CHICAGO, July 15—(UP)—Cattle prices skyrocketed to new all-time highs at five Midwestern stockyards Monday as labor unions planned nation-wide walkouts and buyers' strikes to protest the steady rise in prices.

Prices for prime and choice steers hit the highest marks in history at Chicago, Denver, Omaha, South St. Paul and East St. Louis.

Dun & Bradstreet's daily price index of 30 basic commodities also hit another new high since the agency began compiling the index in 1932. The index jumped from 228.99 on Friday to 229.40 Monday, compared with 219.47 a week ago and 178.56 a year ago.

A survey of principal cities showed that prices for basic foods and other commodities continued to mount.

The powerful CIO United Automobile Workers' Union made plans for its estimated 800,000 members to quit work at 3 p. m. Tuesday for one or two hours. They will attend mass meetings to protest rising prices and to demand renewal of strong OPA controls. The UAW President, Walter P. Reuther, warned Sunday that if prices are not curbed the Union would "begin a fight on the wage front."

At Minneapolis, 10,000 AFL truck drivers and 5,000 affiliated union workers planned a mass "work holiday" protest demonstration for July 31. Union leaders said only emergency deliveries would be made that day by union drivers.

At Springfield, Ill., President John B. Marchiando, of the Independent Progressive Mine Workers of America, claiming representation of 30,000 coal miners, urged all unions to join in demands for "suitable price control."

"If necessary, labor should call a nationwide strike against all industry to show Congress we won't let anyone take away the few dollars we've saved during the war," he said.

Presidents of 100 CIO unions at Hartford, Conn., planned to meet to discuss plans for a statewide buyers' strike.

UAW sources said Tuesday's demonstration by union members would involve 300,000 members at Detroit, 35,000 at Cleveland and 30,000 in Chicago.

CIO unions at Philadelphia planned a mass demonstration at the City Hall and continued picketing stores allegedly engaging in price gouging.

Cattle shipments to Midwestern markets continued high, but were slightly lower than last week's shipments which followed the death of OPA.

Record prices for "on-the-hoof" beef included: Chicago, prime steers, $25 per hundredweight, $1.75 above the previous all-time high set last week: St. Louis, choice steers, $23 per hundredweight; Omaha $24 per hundredweight; South St. Paul, $23 per hundredweight.

The bulk of cattle at Chicago's Union Stockyards, the world's largest, sold Monday at prices ranging from $22.50 to $24.50.

Major packers were more active in the market than they have been for the past two weeks, although their bids were not at the extreme tops quoted for the day. Generally, they were bidding 75c to $1 lower than the top cattle prices.

At 12 principal yards, cattle receipts Monday dropped from 77,381 a week ago to 52,400. Hogs numbered 98,600, compared to 103,603 last Monday.

Some retail butchers at Cleveland abandoned the practice of placing price markers on meat cuts. And revealed the price only to those interested in buying Milk prices at Cleveland will go up two cents to 18 cents per quart Tuesday.

At Philadelphia, meat generally was up 25 percent above OPA ceilings. Retailers reported some consumer resistance to paying 90 cents per pound for butter.

At Columbus, Ohio, the Retail Grocers' Association reported scattered consumer resentment at butter prices averaging 80 cents per pound and said sales were "definitely retarded." There was no organized buyers' strike, however.

Degnan Confession Offered for Life Term?

(Copyright, 1946, by the United Press)

CHICAGO, July 15—William Heirens, 17-year-old college student, has admitted three of the nation's most shocking crimes—the kidnap-slaying and dismemberment of little Suzanne Degnan, the "lipstick" slaying of Frances Brown, and the knife-strangulation of Mrs. Josephine Ross, the United Press learned Monday from highly reliable sources.

Heirens, a University of Chicago sophomore, made the admissions orally, it was learned. The United Press sources said he was attempting to make a deal with the State. He is willing to put the confession in writing in exchange for a life sentence on the basis of insanity, instead of the electric chair.

Apparently dismayed by the amount of evidence gathered by the FBI and Chicago police, Heirens first admitted the kidnaping,

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—William Heirens, who has been questioned regarding the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-killing and the slaying of an ex-WAVE, Monday night told the warden of the Cook County jail that he had heard a radio broadcast which reported that he had "confessed" and added "I didn't confess to nobody."

strangulation and dismemberment of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan on Jan. 7. Then, confronted with fingerprint evidence linking him with the shooting and knifing of Frances Brown, former WAVE, last Dec. 10 he muttered:

"That's mine. And the Ross one is, too."

CAUGHT BY ROOKIE

Mrs. Foss, 43, was garrotted and knifed June 5, 1945, in her Northside apartment.

Heirens, who was captured June 26 by a rookie cop who felled him with three flower pots, has had a crime career that began when he was nine years old.

The youth, of a dual personality—a Dr. Jekyll-and-Mr. Hyde—was described by Chief of Detectives Walter Storms as "one of the worst criminals for his age in crime annals."

The slaying of little Suzanne Degnan resembled the slaying of 14-year-old Bobby Franks who was slain and mutilated here in 1924 by Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, sons of wealthy families. They killed for "a thrill." Heirens' motive for the Degnan crime ostensibly was ransom.

BLAME "GEORGE"

Analysis of the powerfully-built youth's split personality shows on one side a "good self" which enabled him to make excellent grades in school and to win a good conduct award. On the other side was his "bad self"—a self he recognized and had given the name of "George Murmans."

When police questioned him after his capture, he attributed even minor happenings in his life to "George." One officer asked him if he had ever climbed fire escapes.

"I never did, but George did," he replied.

The sullen, black-haired youth, whose mother worked and scrimped to give him an education, was

Buy Strike Power Aim Of Measure

Republican Opponents Of OPA Split on Policy To Avoid Second Veto

WASHINGTON, July 15—(AP)—Legislation to 'facilitate buyers' strikes on any goods which jump high above OPA ceilings was plumped into the legislative hopper Monday.

United Press said hopes of Congressional Democratic leaders that the Senate's unwelcome bill would go to conference for modification were bolstered Monday night when the Republican House command split over what price control course they should pursue.

Meawhile, Philip Murray, CIO President, climbed Capitol Hill to speak of a "danger of widespread unrest" if prices got out of hand. He told a Congressional Committee that if effective controls are not restored there will be repercussions at the polls in November.

A showdown occurs in the House Tuesday on the new Senate bill. That is the measure President Truman says "couldn't be worse"—thus hinting at another veto unless the legislation is revised considerably before it reaches his desk.

"LAST CHANCE"

The tension on price control was heightened further when Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, broadly indicated that the next bill Congress sends to the President will be the last, and that if Mr. Truman vetoes it OPA will be dead permanently. Barkley said he hopes Congress will adjourn by July 27.

The House Republican high command failed, meanwhile, to reach an agreement on party strategy for OPA legislation.

The Republican steering committee met in the office of the party leader, Rep. Martin, of Massachusetts, but members said there were "differences of opinion" and no over-all plan was arrived at.

Some party leaders said they believed the House will send the Senate bill to a House-Senate conference committee, to see if a compromise can be written, and that no instructions will be given the House conferees that would tie their hands in the conference with the senators.

HOUSE MAY INSTRUCT

However, they expect the conferees might be unable to agree, in which event the House might instruct them to accept the Senate bill with certain revisions.

Martin told reporters that if Mr. Truman vetoes another OPA bill "that will be the end of it."

Sen. Taylor, Democrat, of Nevada, has called the new OPA bill a "hoax."

Rep. Voorhis, Democrat, California, offered the buyers' strike guide bill. It would provide consumers with official price data on important commodities and services.

"The thing that really is needed," the Californian said, "is to enable the people to select specific cases where unwarranted price increases have taken place and to withhold their purchases as to those particular things."

Introduction of this bill came after Pres. Walter P. Reuther, of the CIO United Auto Workers said in Chicago a buyers' strike "such as this country has never known" will result from the nationwide series of mass meetings scheduled by the Union for Tuesday.

CIO Leader Murray told the

Siam Appeals To UNO for Aid In Border Rows

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP)—Siam appealed to the United Nations Security Council Monday night to settle her frontier disputes with Indo-China "which threaten the preservation of peace" between the republic of France and the Kingdom of Siam.

The formal complaint, asking Council mediation and agreeing to abide by the Council's proposals for solution, said the border troubles continued to "cause grave concern" to the government of Siam.

The request from the Bangkok government, dated July 11, was circulated immediately among the Council delegations and will be placed on the agenda for consideration at the next meeting.

The United States, Great Britain and China already have said they would support a full hearing of the dispute and were joined by India in support of Siam's pending application for membership in the United Nations.

Byrnes Favors Press At All Peace Parleys

WASHINGTON, July 15—(UP)—Secretary of State Byrnes revealed Monday night he opposed secret committee meetings at the forthcoming peace conference and promised to use all of the United States' influence to open all conference meetings to the press.

His disclosure was made in a radio report to the American people on results of the recent Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting at Paris and on plans for the 21-nation Peace Conference which opens in that city in two weeks.

He explained and defended the decisions reached at Paris earlier this month on draft peace treaties for Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland, and plans for the forthcoming Peace Conference.

Speaking over nationwide hookups of the three major networks, he appealed for great tolerance, patience and understanding in the efforts to build world peace.

"It requires the will and ability to seek the best, to accept the best obtainable, and then to make the best obtainable work," he said. "As war breeds war, so peace can be made to breed peace."

This was obviously in answer to some criticism of the compromises made at Paris to obtain Big Four agreement on the draft treaties.

"The drafts of treaties agreed upon are not the best which human wit could devise," Byrnes said. "But they are the best which human wit could get the four principal Allies to agree upon."

He defended the concessions made on such matters as Italian reparations, internationalization of Trieste and deferment of the Italian colonial problem. He said they represent the attitude not only of himself and President Truman but also of Sens. Connally, Democrat, Texas, and Vandenberg, Republican Michigan, who were his advisers at the recent Council meeting.

Byrnes contended his 10-month struggle to harmonize the views of the great powers on bad treaties and to call a Peace Conference on them had now been brought to a successful conclusion.

He conceded the forthcoming conference can make only recom-

Patrols Search for Seven Marines Kidnaped by Band of 80 Chinese

TIENTSIN, China, July 15—(AP) Seven United States Marines, kidnaped by unidentified Chinese, were sought by air and ground forces Monday as fighting between Chinese Communist and Government forces was renewed at numerous points in Manchuria and North China.

In Shanghai the Middle Course Democratic League declared that China was heading towards civil war on a gigantic scale which would certainly cause her final collapse.

Marine headquarters in Tientsin disclosed the Marines were taken prisoner Saturday at the village of Hsinanchuang, 22 miles northeast of Chinwangtao, on the railroad that leads to Mukden.

Chinese papers here said the abductors were Communists, but the announcement merely described them as a band of about 80 Chinese, not otherwise identified.

The Marines, members of a detachment guarding a railroad bridge, had gone to the village to buy ice, according to an eighth member of the party, who hid in the ice house and escaped capture. The Marines' jeep and trailer were recovered in the village.

Strong Marine patrols immediately began a search, which is continuing. An aerial spotting hunt was pressed Sunday, but was hampered Monday by bad weather. Chinese Government troops were assisting.

At the same time, reports reaching here said Communists had attacked a railway station south of Tientsin in Hopei Province and were on the offensive in the vicinities of Tsingtao and Tsinan in Shantung Province.

These Chinese accounts said 20,000 Communists were attacking the town of Tsimo, 15 miles north of Tsingtao, and that a similar number had fought through Chengyang, 10 miles north of Tsingtao.

Other dispatches said 10,000 Communists had encircled Chiengchang in Northern Manchuria and had captured the town of Hungfantzu on the north bank of the Sungari River.

From Kalgan, Communist-controlled capital of Chahar in Inner Mongolia, came word that the Communists were digging air raid shelters and erecting sandbag barricades in expectation of large-scale hostilities. Appearance almost daily of unidentified aircraft was given as the reason.

Amid these reports of war and reparations for war, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek moved from sweltering Nanking to Kuling for the Summer. Chinese sources in Nanking said this was a "death blow" to hopes for an early settlement, and that the Communists deeply resented the Government leader's departure at this stage.

Tomorrow is election day and the weatherman forecasts generally fair weather all over the State with scattered thundershowers in the afternoon. Temperatures in the south portion will be as torrid as the Governor's race with the mercury climbing to 96 degrees.

Southern Bares $15,000,000 Plan To Modernize Passenger Service

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 15—Southern Railway officials announced here Monday a program for the modernization and improvement of passenger service in the Company's system involving the re-equipping of four trains with 147 new lightweight streamlined passenger cars costing an estimated $15,000,000.

President Ernest E. Norris, of the Company, said the new equipment will include 59 all-room sleeping cars, 8 room-bar-lounge observation cars, four room-bar-lounge cars, 13 diners, 35 coaches, four lounge - cafe - coaches, six lounge-bar-coaches, four baggage-coaches, four baggage-dormitory and 10 railway post office cars.

Norris said the new cars "reflect the Southern's desire to proceed as rapidly as possible with an extensive betterment program which the war interrupted."

"We want to give our customers the finest service possible, but it takes money to do that. With our present inadequate rates, and greatly increased wage, fuel and other costs, it is impossible even to make ends meet. Thus, we are looking hopefully to the Interstate Commerce Commission for an early and favorable decision on the railroads' petition for a 25 percent increase in freight rates. On that decision will depend how far and how fast we can progress in our improvement program, if at all."

The new cars now being acquired, Norris said, will increase from 47 to 194 the number of modern lightweight streamlined cars operating over the Southern, and will be used to effect a major improvement in the following trains:

"The Crescent," Trains No. 37 and 38 operating between New York and New Orleans, will be streamlined and converted into an "all-room" train.

"The Royal Palm," Trains No. 3 and 4 operating between Florida and Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo, via Cincinnati, will be streamlined.

"The Southerner," Trains No. 47 and 48, streamlined all-coach train operating between New York and New Orleans, via Atlanta and Birmingham, will be newly equipped.

Forty-one new lightweight cars

U. S. Berlin Chief Holds 2 Russians As Spies As Reds Liberate Couple

BERLIN, Tuesday, July 16—(UP)—An American Army officer and his wife, tired and haggard after 16 days of captivity by Russian authorities, were returned to the United States zone early today, and U. S. Headquarters simultaneously disclosed it is holding two Russians as spies.

Warrant Officer Samuel L. Harrison and his wife, Helen, of Hurrah, Okla., and San Antonio, Texas, said the first two days of their imprisonment were "horrible."

Maj. Gen. Frank. A. Keating, American Military Governor in Berlin, who went to Russian Headquarters to take custody of the Harrisons from their captors, disclosed the capture of the two Russian spies.

They were seized in civilian clothes while on an espionage mission in the American sector June 14, he said. He had earlier denied Russian charges that his command had imprisoned any Soviet military personnel.

"We have never held any Russian nationals unless they are known to be espionage agents," he said. "I could truthfully say we were holding none in Berlin nor had any of my men seized their agents."

Keating did not disclose what American unit had captured the two Russians, nor where they were being held. He said only that they were picked up outside Berlin and that he had so informed the Soviet Command soon after the Russians had agreed to release the Harrisons.

Keating said the Harrisons were released to him at Soviet headquarters by Maj. Gen. Kotikov, the Russian military governor of Berlin. He said Kotikov was extremely co-operative throughout the procedure of transferring the prisoners.

Both Harrison and his small, brown-haired wife, who had come into the Soviet zone to search for a kennel, were tired from the long ordeal of imprisonment. But they

NEW YORK, July 15—(UP)—Felix, a cat, slipped while cavorting in the window of an apartment house Monday and fell nine stories.

He landed on four feet on a ledge around the building's ground floor, walked nimbly for some 100 feet along the ledge, and hopped lightly down to the sidewalk.

Robert D. Jordan, Director of Promotion of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, came rushing down in the elevator, expecting to find the pet of his daughter, Mary, 16, a corpse.

Instead, he found a very live cat and a very indignant one.

Jordan took protesting Felix to a veterinarian, Dr. Sidney Schiff, who could find no broken bones.

Jimmie, Confident, Pledges 100 Cents to Tax Dollar

By JOHN COURIC.
Constitution Staff Writer.

COLUMBUS, July 15—A confident Jimmie Carmichael entered the home stretch of his gubernatorial race Monday with delivery of two addresses here and another talk earlier in the day in Manchester.

Predicting complete victory Wednesday, Carmichael declared that through honesty and efficiency his administration would "eclipse the promises of his opponent" by actually paving more roads, paying school teachers better salaries, expanding public health and welfare services and creating more jobs with better pay for all the people of the State.

"A sound, business administration of your state affairs will give you people of Georgia 100 cents value for every tax dollar. We won't pay a lot of useless State employes to shuffle paper. We won't tolerate graft or corruption. We will see that everyone gets a square deal," the Cobb County candidate declared.

Reviewing his platform, Carmichael pledged to keep the State out of debt and not to raise taxes, unless necessary for school teacher pay, without first submitting tax proposals to a vote of the people. He said he would give war veterans preference for State jobs and pledged efficient operation of the State Veterans' Service Office. In addition, he promised to aid veterans in obtaining quick service on benefits from the Federal Government with elimination of red tape. He also said he would broaden the vocational education program to benefit veterans, and farm youths.

Carmichael gave his first address in Columbus in the North Highlands section, at Thirty-Eighth St. and Second Ave. Here he carried his campaign to a cheering crowd of textile mill employes who heard him as he spoke from the body of a parked truck. Richard R. Miles, Past President of Central Labor Union, introduced the Cobb County candidate at the informal talk.

At a later meeting at Muscogee County Courthouse Carmichael was introduced by James Carnes, World War II veteran and President of the Columbus Lawyers Club. The Rev. Frank L. Robertson, Pastor of Baker Village Methodist Church, gave the invocation, while Albert Stubbs, attorney, served as master of ceremonies.

Discussing his program of aid for farmers, Carmichael declared his administration would give priority to hard-surfacing rural roads on an equitable basis throughout the State, which would help farmers get their produce to markets.

Expansion of farm markets also will be carried out, he said, and a Farmer's Council, made up of farmers from all sections representing all types of production, will be set up to co-ordinate road building, market location and operation and to advise on bringing new processing plants and industries using Georgia products. In addition, he pledged the backing of his administration to have labor cost included in the computation of farm parity prices.

Besides his other planks, he discussed "home rule" and a preferential primary, promising to promote both of these features of government.

Reiterating his own adherence to Southern traditions, Carmichael branded his major opponent, former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, as the creator of a "false racial issue which will backfire Wednesday and snow under" the former Governor.

In Manchester, he hit strongly at Talmadge's White Primary plan, declaring "the people of Georgia have seen through Talmadge's scheme to steal the election under a shadow of hatred and prejudice and they are going to drive him forever into the dark shadow of oblivion."

Carmichael came to Manchester following a brief visit to Warm Springs Foundation.

Robert H. Goss, railroad engineer of Manchester, presided at the meeting in that city. The Rev. E. M. Wise gave the invocation. Lonnie D. Taylor, World War II veteran, spoke.

Tuesday Carmichael has scheduled a stump address at the courthouse in Jonesboro (11 a. m.), an address at Thomaston (5 p. m.), a 15-minute WSB radio address (8 p. m.) from Barnesville, and a final stump speech at the Barnesville park (8:20 p. m.) The Tuesday stump speeches originally were scheduled for last Saturday, but were postponed due to the death of Mrs. Carmichael's father.

Georgia Jaycees Pick Carmichael On First Ballot

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce throughout Georgia believe Jimmie Carmichael is leading in their home cities, counties and Congressional districts. And they believe the gubernatorial election will be decided on the first ballot.

This was disclosed last night with the announcement of results of a poll taken among Jaycee members from 39 towns.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce members, who have been pushing the registration of new voters, answered the poll questions as follows: Who is leading in your home city?—Carmichael, 432; Talmadge, 76; Rivers, 5, and O'Kelley, 1. Who is leading in your home county? — Carmichael, 386; Talmadge, 121; Rivers, 1, and O'Kelley, 1. Who is leading in your home congressional district? — Carmichael, 344; Talmadge, 102, and Rivers 3. Will the election be decided on the first ballot—389, yes; 102, no.

Flood Threatens Big Bengal Area

CALCUTTA, July 15—(AP)—Floods of unprecedented severity have created grave conditions in the Chittagong area of eastern Bengal, causing authorities to press RAF planes into service to drop food supplies.

Sir Cyril Gurner, Relief Commissioner to the Bengal Government, said the floods affected 600 square miles inhabited by 500,000 persons. The Halda and Karnaphuli Rivers, fed by the monsoon, have damaged rice crops, flooded villages and drowned cattle.

Constitution, WGST To Rush Vote Returns

Continuing a policy established more than 10 years ago, The Atlanta Constitution and WGST will bring to Atlanta and Georgia the complete returns of the statewide election tomorrow.

WGST's microphones will be set up in the news rooms of The Constitution, where complete returns will be tabulated and broadcast by WGST's news staff, under the direction of John Fulton and Frank Gaither. Beginning at 6 p. m. when the first precincts will close in the rural areas of the state, and throughout the night, all programs will be interrupted for election bulletins and detailed reports of the trends as they develop. The full service of the Associated Press will be utilized as well as The Constitution's own election setup for the Fulton County and Fifth District Congressional races. Elaborate plans by The Constitution and WGST have been made to analyze the trends as they begin to appear in the voting, as well as giving the listeners the factual reports of the returns as they are tabulated.

The Constitution-WGST election returns have been the first in many elections in the past to bring the final complete returns to the listeners, together with the voices of the winning and losing candidates. In the Countywide elections just concluded this year, The Constitution's WGST broadcast brought together for the first time in history all the winning candidates for a joint broadcast. Participating were R. L. (Shorty) Doyal, and J. H. Aldredge, successful candidates for the County Commission, and Judge Jesse Wood, the successful candidate for Judge of the Criminal Court of Fulton County.

The Constitution's outstanding political analysts and editors will appear on the broadcast to insure the listeners the latest, up-to-the-minute news.

WGST will remain on the air all night if necessary to bring the final returns to the WGST-Constitution listeners.

Sees Furniture Output Meeting Nation's Demand

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—A test of the backlog of orders in the furniture hardwood field shows that demand is "not as great as it looks," Burdett Green, manager of the American Walnut Manufacturers' Association, said Monday.

"We cannot supply demand now," Green said in an interview. "We are producing walnut veneers at a rate of 149 percent of 1940 production, and walnut lumber at 50 percent of 1940.

"But there has been pyramiding; that is, orders have been placed around so that they look like a huge backlog. However, we have made just enough lumber now to prove that when the initial demand is satisfied, as it is beginning to be now, the backlog will fall sharply."

Green made his observation in connection with the opening of the second week of the annual Summer market at the American Furniture Mart.

Augusta Paper Asks Support For McDonald

AUGUSTA, July 15—The Augusta Chronicle carried in its Sunday edition the following editorial comment on the candidacy of Walter R. McDonald for re-election to the Public Service Commission in Wednesday's primary:

"The Chronicle hopes that in the excitement over electing a Governor next Wednesday, Richmond County citizens will not forget to give their full measure of support to a distinguished Augustan who is seeking re-election. We refer to Walter McDonald who is offering his services again as a member of the Public Service Commission.

"On the basis of his fine record alone, Mr. McDonald would warrant the support of all Augustans. But this support is doubly warranted in view of the fact that he is an Augustan with friends and admirers in all walks of life in this community.

"Mr. McDonald's leadership in the long fight to win fairer freight rates for the South is recognized by all. His continued and successful efforts to secure lower utilities rates for the citizens of Georgia also is a matter of common knowledge.

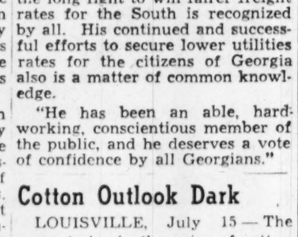

"He has been an able, hard-working, conscientious member of the public, and he deserves a vote of confidence by all Georgians."

Cotton Outlook Dark

LOUISVILLE, July 15 — The present rise in the price of cotton finds the local warehouses well depleted of any sizeable stock. Much of the cotton had been already shipped before the rise, large purchases having been negotiated some weeks ago. The present growing crop of the staple is fighting heavy odds against the boll weevil.

Men attending the conference include Dr. Kenneth Heaton and Dr. Louis Heil of the Office of the Secretary of War; Col. S. Civil Service Region.

Jap Lady Police More Lady Than Cops

TOKYO, July 15—(AP)—Tokyo's 60 feminine cops—who made their tradition-shattering debut after two months of special training—have found out they aren't cops after all and the girls are plain dissatisfied about it.

"We are made by the Metropolitan Police Roll to play the roll of dolls," the pertly uniformed policewomen asserted Monday in a statement issued to the press.

"We have been deceived."

The policewomen still technically are "auxiliary employes" with no police authority. Their limited status has confined them to standing on street corners directing traffic and helping children and old women across intersections.

Furthermore, the statement asserted, they were promised 300 yen (about $20) a month, but have received only 260. Likewise, they receive no special food rations, as are provided for men police, they complained.

Reinstate Purged Voters In Appling, Judge Orders

A federal judge has ordered one county to reinstate the names of 600 Negroes stricken from the registration list in a block.

Meanwhile, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced in Atlanta yesterday it has launched an investigation into Georgia's Democratic Primary. While Special Agent John F. Trost, of the Atlanta FBI office, would not say what his office is investigating, Maj. William Spence, of the Georgia State Patrol, said he understood the FBI was looking into the possibility of violations of Negroes' civil rights in several counties.

Federal Judge Frank M. Scarlett, at Brunswick, yesterday ordered registrars of Appling County (Baxley) to return to the list of qualified voters for the primary tomorrow the names of 600 Negroes knocked off in a mass purging.

The names were stricken when a majority of the Negroes failed to appear before the Board of Registrars, which had summoned them to answer challenge of their right to vote. Several of the group who did appear were disqualified. Judge Scarlett gave the registrars until Tuesday to put the Negroes' names back on the list and certify the list to the proper county authorities.

The judge also ordered registrars of Coffee County (Douglas) to complete their list of eligible voters and turn it over to the proper County authorities by Tuesday.

Judge Scarlett Saturday enjoined the mass purging of Negroes in Atkinson County.

Federal District Attorneys Neil Andrews in Atlanta, John Cowart in Macon, and J. Saxton Daniel in Savannah have announced they received numerous complaints of alleged violations of Negroes' civil rights.

Maj. Spence of the State Patrol said he anticipates no disorders when the Negroes go to the polls Wednesday.

Another half dozen Negroes were disqualified from voting yesterday by Fulton County Deputy Registrar Ellis McClelland, and it appeared likely that, so far as the July 17 primary is concerned, no more would be marked off the lists, since the lists must be in the hands of the precinct managers by tonight.

Of the 28 disqualified out of 81 challenges heard, all but six were marked off because of criminal records. Attorneys Charles Bruce and Ike Wengrow questioned those challenged yesterday.

The total number registered to vote in Fulton County yesterday was 122,119, of which 22,765 are Negroes.

Truman, Byrnes Favor U. S. Role in World Court

WASHINGTON, July 15—(AP)—Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson testified Monday that President Truman and Secretary Byrnes favor active participation by the United States in the World Court established by the United Nations.

Acheson testified before a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee that the "President and the Secretary of State have carefully weighed the proposal . . . and have recommended that the United States should deposit its declaration and accept the jurisdiction of the court."

Similar testimony came from Charles Fahy, legal adviser for the State Department, and Dr. Philip C. Jessup, Professor of International Law at Columbia University, New York City.

Acheson said this country already had agreed to settlement of its political disputes by the UNO Security Council, and now should take the next step by allowing similar determination of international judicial questions in which it may be involved.

Sen. Austin, Republican, Vermont, who will serve as the U. S. representative on the Security Council, remarked that the World Court is similar to the Supreme Court of the United States in that both lack a "sheriff" to enforce their decisions.

Guard Your Eyes

By H. C. NAYLOR, President, Lane Drug Stores, Inc.

Often when there is trouble with vision it is a pathological condition. Sometimes, delay in consulting an eye physician leads to serious difficulty.

This is true in certain types of glaucoma, which is a congestion of the fluids normally flowing through the eyes.

In its early stages this affliction can be controlled, can even be cured. Skilled eye specialists are able to readily detect such a condition and to treat with it successfully.

Do not delay consulting such a specialist when your eyes trouble you. (c)

FOR YOUR NEW
Lieutenant Governor
IN THE JULY 17 PRIMARY

DR. L. N. HUFF

DR. L. N. HUFF IS THE ONLY CANDIDATE IN THE RACE WITH A DEFINITE PROGRAM OF HELP & SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE OF GA.

★ Better Health for Better Citizens is the slogan Dr. L. N. Huff, a pioneer in scientific eye refraction for rural districts and a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has adopted for his campaign.

★ Dr. Huff points out that rural sections of Georgia have been neglected and that high maternity, infant mortality, and draft rejection rates are attributable to the fact that health in outlying sections have not kept pace with urban areas.

★ He quotes provisional figures released by the State Health Department showing that 237 mothers died in the State last year in giving birth to live children, and that 3,023 infants died during the same period. State Selective Board figures estimated that 40 percent of the more than 500,000 called by draft boards were rejected because of physical defects.

★ "All this is indicative of the need for improved health facilities for rural areas," Dr. Huff said. "While the Lieutenant Governor will not be a policy-making official, he can be of inestimable service in assisting in correcting these conditions. I pledge my efforts to improve health throughout Georgia and especially in rural sections in the firm belief that Georgia will never be any better than the general health of its citizens."

★ Dr. Huff has advocated and practiced better health for rural communities for years and has been a leading figure in his profession for more than 35 years. He is a member of the Better Vision Institute, a National organization devoted to improve vision, and for 12 years served as a member of the Georgia Board of Examiners in Optometry, having been appointed to the post by three different Governors.

★ He and Mrs. Huff have been married 42 years and have seven children. They reside at 1118 St. Charles Place, N. E. Dr. Huff is a native Georgian, born on a farm in Morgan County.

He will co-operate with the man you elect Governor in achieving this program.

LaGuardia To Leave On UNRRA Tour

NEW YORK, July 14—(INS)—Fiorello H. LaGuardia, head of the UNRRA, announced Monday that he is leaving on a tour of various countries receiving UNRRA aid and recommended that the relief work in some nations be extended into 1947.

The former New York City Mayor said in his weekly radio address over the American Broadcasting Company that in his tour he will be accompanied by representatives of the U. S., the United Kingdom, Russia and Australia.

He asserted that after leaving the UNRRA countries, he expects to attend a meeting of the UNRRA Council beginning Aug. 5 in Geneva, Switzerland.

LaGuardia said that although termination of UNRRA is "of course, a matter of routine," he will exert his efforts to see that some of the needy countries will continue to receive aid in 1947.

He said:

"It would be too bad that after all of this aid has been given, which amounts to $3,600,000,000, that it should stop abruptly when there is still need for help, because that would set these countries back.

"The extended, large, complex organization of UNRRA after December, 1946, I do not believe is necessary."

LaGuardia also stated that there is much "narrow-mindedness and prejudice and lack of vision" in the Senate bill amending the original OPA bill.

He frankly called it "a mess" and predicted that "if it goes in anything like this form, it will receive a second veto from President Truman."

Lonely Lad, 5, Is Killed On Way to Mother's Bed

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP)—Five-year-old Kenneth Ryan's desire to sleep in his mother's bed cost him his life Monday.

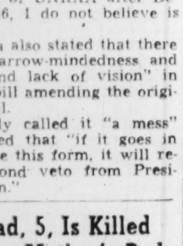

The boy awoke at 1 a. m. and asked his mother, Martha, for a drink and permission to get into her bed in another room of their third-floor apartment.

When she returned with the drink he was gone. His body was found at the bottom of an air shaft, and police theorized that Kenneth, half asleep, climbed onto a window ledge thinking he was getting into mother's bed and plunged down the shaft.

Garland Favors Free Lunches, Juvenile Homes

Reuben Garland, Atlanta Attorney seeking the Fulton County legislative post formerly held by Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, has promised to work for free lunches for school children and for juvenile detention homes to segregate young offenders from hardened criminals.

In a campaign address broadcast here last night, Garland, who was a former assistant solicitor general here, said juvenile delinquency would be greatly reduced by his program.

"Ninety-five percent of the young offenders standing in court before me when I was a prosecuting attorney were hungry and ragged," Garland said. "Had the Government provided free lunches for school children, I am safe in saying these children would have been in school instead of collaborating with little fellow offenders in the commission of these crimes."

Garland said he would, if elected, introduce a bill in the Legislature to have the State match Federal funds providing all children with free lunches. He frowned upon the present practice which he said virtually forces a child to sign a pauper's oath in order to get a free lunch. Garland contended the health of all children would be improved if vitamin-filled lunches were served.

He also pledged to introduce a bill to provide for the erection of juvenile detention homes, properly equipped, and adequately staffed to house young violators of Georgia's criminal laws, so that no child would be confined with hardened criminals. Other points in Garland's platform included support for home rule and elimination of red tape in the veterans' aid bills.

Macon TB Survey Called Success

MACON, July 15—(AP)—So much enthusiasm has developed in the syphilis-tuberculosis survey campaign here that one man rolled his wife four and a half miles in a wheel chair to have the tests made.

'The Hub' Throws The Party Into Political Dither

Constitution State News Service.

SAVANNAH, July 15—Political leaders of "The Party," the Democratic organization of Chatham County, were in a dither Sunday night at the news, revealed Sunday, that "The Hub," the County's Negro political organization, has indorsed the candidates of the Citizens' Progressive League in opposition to the regular ticket of "The Party."

This action, political observers say, throws a cog into the plans of "The Party" to win their usual big victory in the coming primary. For, out of 58,850 registered voters in Chatham County, 19,902 are Negroes. If these Negroes vote in a bloc, as they now threaten, the CPL candidates may win the victory over the candidates of "The Party." Politicians have counted on a vote of 37,000 at the primary Wednesday.

Before taking their action, leaders of "The Hub" sought, without success, to interview the three legislative candidates of "The Party." Political Leaders John J. Bouhan and Judge J. P. Houlihan declined to permit this conference and the leaders of "The Hub" then indorsed the legislative candidates of CPL.

"The Hub" threw another surprise when it indorsed for judge Miss Phyllis Kravich in place of Victor Mullings, a blind man, indorsed by CPL. James F. Glass, the third man in this race, will now probably receive the support of "The Party." Miss Kravich is the daughter of the lawyer who has handled most of the legal business for "The Hub."

As a result of the latest development, leaders of "The Party" are now engaged in an active last-minute effort to "get out the vote" on election day.

Towns Named President By Sunday School Group

Jack Towns, of Atlanta, was elected President of the South Fulton County Sunday School Association during its ninetieth annual celebration Sunday at Ben Hill.

The gathering was held at the Mount Gilead Camp Grounds with, what officers said, was one of the largest crowds ever to attend a meeting of the Association.

Other officers for the coming year are James M. Stewart, Vice President; John Hardin, Secretary-Treasurer; Alvin A. Shaw, Chorister; Mrs. Eva Roan, Pianist; Mrs. W. O. Suttles, Corresponding Secretary, and Mrs. Mabel A. MacNeill, Assistant Corresponding Secretary.

WALTER McDONALD ADDS TO DISGRACE

Walter is parading himself as the one hope of rail rate reductions. Yet, at the very time leaders from Georgia with Congressmen and Senators were fighting the Bulwinkle Bill which takes the very backbone of railroad operations from the control of the anti-trust laws, you find Walter on a three-to-two vote of the Commission, dominated by him, voting an endorsement of this disgraceful bill—much to the chagrin of Senator Dick Russell and other southern leaders who have led the fight against this terrible bill.

Based on his official record, if you will apply the same rules in voting on Walter McDonald's candidacy that you apply in your private business, he will not carry a county in the state.

A drove of inspectors from the Commission are touring the state appealing to you to vote for Walter.

Your Commission's offices have been turned into an unheard-of campaign headquarters, working your employees late at night, on July 4, burning your lights, at your expense, writing appealing letters to you, telling you how important it is that Walter be kept in office.

For 23 years he has fought for an even division of the other four members of the Commission, which enables him to control the Commission, WHICH HE DOES.

He had his farm electrified, no part of the cost of which had been paid when he was under investigation.

Again with a split vote, Walter required the railroads and busses to furnish him free annual passes, which he used until he was exposed.

Do you suffer from constipation? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I can truthfully say that I have been more or less constipated all my life and have taken most all kinds of harsh laxatives. But four months ago I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. If you suffer from constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet, you may be free from this trouble for the rest of your life if you will eat a dish of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. Try this for 10 days, and if not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You'll get double your money back.

MAKES HERSELF "AT HOME" — Nancy Hartung, Powers model press agent and former fashion editor of the New York Journal-American, takes over the city editor's desk at The Constitution on a visit to the paper yesterday in behalf of the forthcoming movie "Caesar and Cleopatra." While here, Nancy dropped a few hints about movies, fashions and women. She thinks Cleopatra was "too thick" to be beautiful.

Ag-Industry Plan Working In Mississippi, Says White

A man who saw the life of his State ebbing away with the death of its pine forests and who gave it speedy resuscitation through an industrial program supported by the folks of the rural communities, called upon the country preacher to lend a hand on the "material side" last night.

The speaker was former Gov. Hugh White, of Mississippi, father of a State supported balance-agriculture-with-industry program, and he was talking to 150 ministers attending the conference on rural church leadership at Emory University.

White, a well-known Columbia, Miss., lumberman, Governor from 1936 to 1940 and at present a member of the State Legislature and Chairman of the Industrial Department of the State Industrial and Agricultural Board, told the preachers the story of his State's swing to industrialism.

"I spent a life in the lumber industry," White said, "I was busy manufacturing pine lumber. And as each tree was taken away the life of the country was ebbing away. In our little town we knew what was coming and we knew it was criminal for the citizenry to sit down and wait for the dreadful day when the whistle would blow for the last time."

The program White organized and got enacted by an extraordinary session of the Mississippi Legislature during his first year as Governor provided that any city or county could vote revenue bonds and build factories "even to the point of a city operating a factory."

However, an Industrial Board was set up to control the industries moving into the plants and as a result the end of his term of office saw 14 new manufacturing concerns in Mississippi, with a 23 percent payroll increase. Now approximately 40 new plants are moving into the rural sections of the State, bringing a payroll of $10,000,000, White said.

The Mississippian, who was introduced by Preston Arkwright, said decentralization was the key to his plan and its success was based on the way it takes up the slack in farm labor, keeping young people at home and giving them a living wage.

White's address at a banquet last night climaxed a day-long meeting on rural problems confronting the preacher. Dr. Goodrich C. White, Emory President, presided at the meeting.

President Clarence Pinson, of the Jefferson Commission, Associate Commissioner Earl Bruner and County Purchasing Agent George Wilson will arrive this afternoon to observe the function of the machines when the polls open at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

Pinson said his party was not so interested in the speed with which the machines tabulate as it was the length of time it took voters to cast their ballots in the machines.

The party will spend tomorrow here inspecting the machines; then leave Thursday.

ALAS, POOR CLEO

Powers Girl Finds Egypt A Bit Thick

By PAUL JONES

Cleopatra wouldn't stand a chance with the 1946 pin-up girl. She was "too thick."

That's the opinion of Nancy Hartung, bejeweled and lusciously-looking Powers model who yesterday included Atlanta in her nation-wide publicity tour in behalf of a mutti-million-dollar movie entitled "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Garbed in $100 worth of clothes and $2,000 worth of jewelry, Nancy, who goes by the name of Mrs. A. G. Thompson in real life, dropped in on the newsroom of The Constitution ostensibly to say a few words of praise about the movie.

But, she disposed of the movie by "modestly" expressing the opinion that it is "one of the greatest pictures of our time." Then she got off on the subject of women, married life and clothes—three things upon which she is very adequately informed.

For herself, Nancy never pays more than $25 for a dress. The one she was wearing yesterday, a simple black, high-neckline, side drape affair, cost $19.98 in a New York department store. Her shoes, likewise simple and black, cost less than $11, and her hat, a white, rough straw with green gros-grain ribbon, open crown and large red flowers, set her back a cool $35.

You can rest assured that Nancy's hubby will never see the price tag on that number. "I never let him known how much I pay for a chapeaux. It would 'floor' him," she said.

"Jewelry and accessories are the most important things in a woman's wardrobe," said the charming brunette. "This jewelry I am wearing (a gold necklace, ring and earbobs set with diamonds, rubies and sapphires) is valued at more than $2,000."

But, to get back to Cleopatra who is the real reason for this story.

"She was too thick to be classed as a beauty on today's glamour market," Nancy said. "She was less than five feet tall. And besides, she was nobody's rose, but she was fascinating and just a little bit smarter than the men who fell in love with her."

That was the secret of Cleopatra's love life and it holds true even today, Miss Hartung believes.

Miss Hartung doesn't let her career as model and press agent interfere with her married life. She maintains a happy home with her husband, Lt. Col. A. G. Thompson, an Army flyer. She wouldn't be working now—but the salary sounded so good she couldn't turn it down.

NO PAY RAISES FOR 'BAMA BRASS

MOBILE, Ala., July 15—(AP) Adj. Gen. George L. Cleere, of the Alabama State Guard, said Monday he would not increase the pay of guard officers, as permitted by the increased pay schedule of the Army, because the law prevents raising the pay of enlisted guardsmen.

The Guard Commander explained in an orientation period at the Dauphin Island Encampment that under the 1940 Alabama Code, the pay of enlisted guardsmen is fixed by State law, while that of officers can be increased to equal that of Regular Army officers. To raise officers' pay without boosting that of enlisted men would be discrimination, he asserted.

Opposition Will Fall Wednesday, Rivers Predicts

Instead of being counted out of the race himself, ex-Gov. Rivers told three audiences yesterday that he "will be up there looking down Wednesday when the opposition is counted out."

The former Governor addressed a rally at the Ansley Hotel last night, after speaking at Jonesboro and Milstead. Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, National Democratic Committeewoman, urged Rivers' election when she spoke on the Atlanta program.

Rivers told his audiences he was optimistic over the outcome of the race. He claimed he was the only candidate with a progressive platform, and that the people realize he is the candidate who will keep his promises.

"I have promised to build roads throughout the State, and I will build them," Rivers said. "I have promised Junior Colleges for every Georgia High School graduate, and I will give them to Georgia. I have promised to raise schoolteachers' pay, and I will raise them. I have promised increased old age pensions, and I will increase them."

Found No Abnormal Habits In Farrell, CO Tells Court

BOSTON, July 15—(UP)—Lt. Thomas Farrell's commanding officer testified in Superior Court Monday that to the best of his knowledge the 24-year-old beribboned Somerville pilot had no abnormal sex habits.

Maj. Walter Geyer, of Mena, Ark., who was Farrell's squadron commander at the Westover Army Air Field, said he had never heard of sexual irregularities with regard to the defendant who is accused of branding his initials on an 18-year-old girl's breasts, hips and thighs with lighted cigarettes.

Cross-examination of another defense witness was interrupted to allow Maj. Geyer to testify. He said Farrell had a good reputation for truth at Westover Field.

"I assume your information concerning Farrell's reputation refers to his work?" Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan asked.

"Yes," Geyer replied.

Miss Hope Georgantas, 21-year-old willowy blonde, then resumed the stand to tell how she threatened the complainant, Miss Helen Stavrou, with a wooden ash tray stand during a quarrel over the affections of the handsome flier.

She denied she had asked Miss Pauline Bonin, another defense witness, to "pump Helen as much as possible" so she could pass the information on to Farrell to aid him in his case.

The witness said she had cursed and sworn over the telephone to Farrell because he had taken Miss Stavrou out, but denied she was jealous of the shapely former Holyoke stenographer. Under cross-examination she said she felt she had the right to tell him whom to go out with, though she had said earlier she was not in love with him.

"I told her I hoped she was satisfied, that she'd been trying to get all the other girls' boy friends by doing things other girls won't do," Miss Georgantas said.

"You made a comparative statement—that Helen Stavrou would do what you wouldn't," Sullivan said. "Well, what wouldn't you do that she would? What would you do? What did you do with Lt. Farrell?"

The questions were objected to by Defense Atty. Herbert F. Callahan and excluded by Judge Edward J. Voke.

Miss Georgantas said after five or six dates she stopped going out with Farrell because of their quarrel over his attentions to Miss Stavrou.

"Didn't you write him a 10-page letter in March calling him a heel, liar and bum?" Sullivan inquired.

"No, I didn't write him a letter," Miss Georgantas said.

"I tore it up," she answered. "And it wasn't 10 pages."

East Point Votes On Councilmen; Three Candidates

East Point residents are jumping the Georgia election gun by casting ballots today.

They will elect a councilman to the Second Ward, to fill the unexpired term of Chester Pair. Candidates are Roy E. Harris, a grocer; Frank E. Cooper, a chemist, and J. M. Goode, a poultry dealer.

At last night's meeting of the City Council, a recommendation which at the last meeting brought a mild rebuke from Mayor E. T. Laney was overwhelmingly approved. The plan was proposed by the Finance Committee and called for an administrative change in the handling of light and water accounts. At the last meeting Mayor Laney complained he should have been consulted on the matter and forced a postponement of consideration. At last night's meeting Laney was out of town and J. R. MacWilliams, Chairman of the Finance Committee and Mayor Pro Tem, was in charge.

The Council passed an ordinance prohibiting parking on the left side of the street at any time and heard a request that the unincorporated areas of Egan Park be brought within the city limits of East Point.

Business Women Urge Activity In Government

Amid the "most harmonious convention any group ever had," the National Federation of Business and Professional Women last week went on record in Cleveland, urging more women in governmental policy-making positions and a united stand on public issues in every community in America.

Mrs. Mayme Taylor, President of the Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women, who attended the convention as one of 1,601 delegates, reported yesterday that several other significant resolutions were passed by the women who represent 101,000 business and professional members.

The resolutions included a recommendation that Majority Leader Barkley be asked to give a definite place on the current Congressional calendar for the Equal Rights Amendment, providing equal opportunity and equal pay for women.

The group also favored joint regulation of labor and management by governmental authority, and favored a strong international program.

Mrs. Taylor, who served on the Resolutions Committee replacing Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, Public Affairs Chairman, led the round table and workshop in the field of public affairs.

She said the Illinois delegation introduced a resolution calling for an end to discrimination against girls in universities and colleges by limiting the percentage admitted, and advocating admission be made on appraised merit of high school graduates.

By placing emphasis on high school students, Mrs. Taylor said, the convention sought to avoid conflict with GIs to whose rights to education priorities they strongly adhere.

Miss Sally Butler, of Indianapolis, was elected President to succeed Miss Margaret Hickey, of St. Louis. Dr. K. Francis Scott, Northampton, Mass.; Mrs. Hazel V. Peterson, Pierre, S. D.; Mrs. Nina Horton Avery, Richmond, were elected Vice Presidents; Mrs. Florence B. Cartright, Shawnee, Okla., Recording Secretary, and Miss Maude Doyle, Albuquerque, N. M., Treasurer.

Apparel Men Hear Arnall Plea for Better World

In a plea for "a better America and a better world," Gov. Arnall yesterday addressed the annual convention of the National Corporation of Men's Apparel Clubs, in session at the Biltmore Hotel.

To achieve a better world, the Governor urged three points: (1) Better understanding in order to eliminate bigotry and prejudice; (2) better housing and better living conditions in order to create better health, and (3) more and better economic opportunities for the great mass of people.

Gov. Arnall cautioned his hearers not to make the common mistake of going too far afield to begin their efforts to create a better world.

"We must begin right where we are," he said. "It does no good to worry because somebody disfranchises millions of Bulgars so long as we ourselves disfranchise millions of people in our own country. Right here, no matter where we may be, is the place to start our efforts to build up a better world."

The Governor also warned the people not to put too much faith in armaments, in organizations or in the atomic bomb.

"The real place where we must do our work," he explained, "is in the minds and souls of men. If and when we make better men, then we'll have a better world.

"We can have that better world—if we want it. But we should remember that in order to get it we must start to work right where we are."

The Governor predicted a long period of prosperity for the nation. Panics and depressions, he commented, are much too expensive for this country to stand.

"I believe our Government will step in and prevent them," he continued, "and if we manage it right we can have a long period of the most prosperous times this country has ever seen."

Mayor Hartsfield welcomed the delegates to Atlanta and told them he had no key to give them because the doors of Atlanta are "always open" to visitors from other States.

During the day, the delegates discussed plans for the issuance of an annual yearbook.

The sessions will continue today and through tomorrow.

Homeless Vet Finds Shelter In Bus Body

By JIM FURNISS

World War II veterans can take a tip from a white-haired, old fighting man on the housing situation.

Andrew J. Watts, a 68-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American War, had most of the cards stacked against him. He had no money, no job and no roof over his head. He was sick and his youth was gone.

Now, he is riding through old age in style—in the body of an old passenger bus.

"Comfortable? Why it's more comfortable than your own parlor," he insisted, pointing to a variety of furniture and his studio couch, set crosswise below the vehicle's windshield.

"I got every kind of exposure," he added, gesturing toward the glass windows on all sides; "and I'll have two electric lights in here soon."

"Course, I can't stand up straight yet, but I am soon to set the old home up on a trailer, knock out the floor and have eight more inches of height."

A fruit stand proprietor who "went broke," Watts spent last month in Veterans' Hospital 48. When discharged he could not find a room until his brother's son-in-law bought the bus body in in Alabama, had it hauled here and set it up on a vacant lot a few blocks from Five Points.

At various times a boilermaker, wrecker, construction iron worker, assistant hotel engineer and boarding house operator, Watts is now constrained by age and illness to sell razor blades on street corners until his old age pension application is approved.

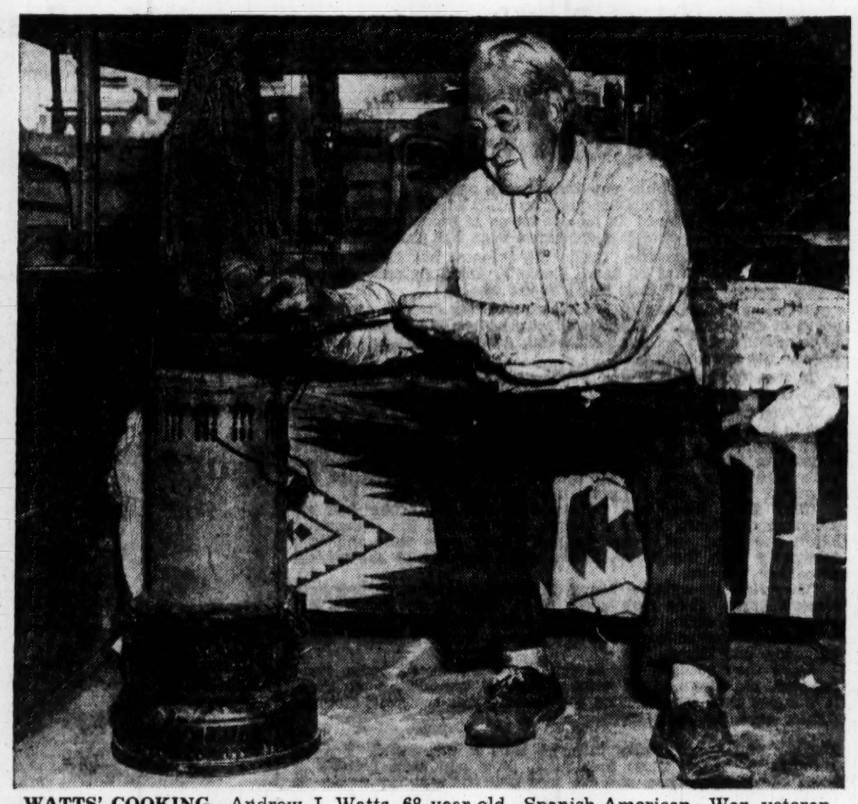

Though sad he cannot work, he he has not been idle. He has put up a curtain around his bed, and is tinning over two windows in the rear "so folks can't look in and see what I'm cooking."

Folks do look in, though.

"Say, Pop. That's some place you've got there, one passerby remarked.

"Well, it ain't fixed up right yet," he replied cheerfully. "I need a three-burner oil stove bad, and I've go to paint over the signs saying 'Don't spit on the floor' and 'Pay as you leave.'

"But it's not bad, though. Not bad at all."

WATTS' COOKING—Andrew J. Watts, 68-year-old Spanish-American War veteran, fries up a meal in his combination apartment. He is living in the body of an old passenger bus, parked on a vacant lot in Atlanta, and is beating the housing shortage.

Warren Projects 185 Houses for Vets In Atlanta

Roy D. Warren, President of the Roy D. Warren Company, Inc., has announced that his firm is preparing for the immediate development of four real estate subdivisions of 185 lots with veterans' housing. The total cost will be around $1,500,000.

The houses which Warren intends to construct will cost, he says, from $6,300 to $10,000 each, including land and improvements. He plans to complete some of them in a few weeks and all of them by Fall.

All of these subdivisions are in the Greater Atlanta area. One is at Forest Acres, another near Forest Park, a third in West End, near Beecher street, and the fourth is in East Atlanta.

Warren said the first of the developments will be Forest Acres, a 50-lot tract near Forest Park. Houses here are designed for ex-service employes of the new Ford plant at Hapeville and for workers at the Atlanta General Depot, near Conley. This property is 12 miles from Five Points and its houses will have a price range of from $6,300 to $7,350.

Warren's company is also the exclusive sales agent for Hivue Home Sites, near Forest Park. Its engineers are now working to develop 52 lots on this site and the price range of the houses will be about the same as at Forest Acres.

On the West End site, there are 33 home sites. Houses here will be constructed by independent operators associated with Warren's firm. Prices will range from $8,000 to $9,000 per house.

The site for the East Atlanta development is a 33-acre tract. The subdivision, still unnamed, will be an extension of Stokeswood and Gresham Avenues. It contains 50 lots and the houses will range in price from $8,000 to $10,000.

mendations to the Big Four. These nations then will draft the final texts of the treaties for Germany's five former satellites.

But he reminded that the Big Four are committed to consider those recommendations and not to reject any of them arbitrarily.

"It is my hope that the Council of Foreign Ministers," he said, "will consider the recommendations and will agree upon the final text so that the treaties may be signed by the delegates before the conference adjourns."

This was the first indication by Byrnes that he hoped to clean up completely at the Paris Conference the treaties for five Axis satellites.

It had been assumed earlier that a post conference Big Four meeting would be necessary to consider the conference recommendations. This, of course, may still be necessary if agreement at Paris is not forthcoming.

Byrnes recalled briefly the row at the recent Paris meeting over conference procedure. The Russians had sought to have the Big Four lay down in advance rules of procedure to be followed by all nations attending.

HOPES TO ADMIT PRESS

The United States and Great Britain objected and Byrnes reasserted Monday night that the conference will be free to determine its own organization and procedure.

"It was proposed that the meetings of subcommittees should be secret," Byrnes said. "But on our objection this provision was eliminated. I gave notice that so far as the United States is concerned, it will use its influence to open to the press the meetings of the conference and of its committees."

Byrnes devoted much of his address to explaining the major decisions reached by the Council on the Italian treaty.

He defended at length the decisions to internationalize Trieste—the Adriatic city which he formerly wanted to give to Italy and which the Russians insisted should go to Yugoslavia.

Neither the Russians nor the Americans, he reported, were prepared to yield on this point at the beginning of the conference. The Russians, he said, even rejected his proposal that the issue be left to the peace conference.

SERIOUS DILEMMA

"This left us in a more serious dilemma than most people realize," he said.

Byrnes explained that the United States could make a separate treaty with Italy, leaving her Trieste, but that the Soviet and Yugoslav Governments probably would not have accepted it. They probably would have demanded that Italy make a separate peace with them, ceding Trieste to Yugoslavia.

"Even if no one of us presented a treaty to Italy, a disarmed Italy could hold Trieste against the army of Yugoslavia only so long as our troops held it for her," he said.

It was at this point, he said, that the French informally proposed that Trieste and its adjacent territory be separated from Italy and its security and integrity be internationally guaranteed.

No one liked the proposal at first, he said, but the more it was studied the more it seemed to offer a reasonable basis for agreement.

ITALY IN WAR I

He recalled that Italy, before she entered World War I on the Allied side, had proposed that the area become an autonomous state. She received Trieste in 1919 as the result of a secret agreement which gave her that territory as part of her compensation for joining the Allies.

Despite his earlier misgivings, Byrnes said, he is now convinced that the French compromise is "fair and workable if the peoples most concerned worked together to make it so."

"Unless they work together," he added, "there can be no solution.

"If friendly relations are maintained between the free territory of Trieste and her neighbors, this little territory may enjoy greater prosperity and be a source of greater prosperity to its neighbors than would be the case if it were joined either to Italy or Yugoslavia."

Byrnes admitted that prior to the first Paris Foreign Ministers' meeting in April, he had little hope that the Big Four would ever reach agreement. After the April meeting, he added, he had less hope.

But Monday night he said:

"Now the prospect for peace treaties with five countries is bright. Ninety days after ratification of those treaties occupation armies must be withdrawn except where they protect a line of communications. Then the people of the occupied states can live and breathe as free people. We are on the road back to peace."

DESIGN COMPLETED FOR '47 TAG

Georgia's 1947 automobile tags will have maroon numbers on a cream background with "Peach State" spelled out at the bottom of the tag.

C. A. Williams, director of the Board of Corrections, displayed one of the new tags yesterday and said production of the license plates would begin at the Tattnall Prison sometime during the Fall.

Williams explained the State has lined up sufficient steel and paint to produce a full supply of the tags by Jan. 1.

Solicitor's Staff Adds J. W. Dorsey

James W. Dorsey, son of former Gov. Hugh M. Dorsey, has been appointed to the staff of the Solicitor General of the Atlanta Circuit by Solicitor E. E. "Shorty" Andrews.

James W. Dorsey

Dorsey's father is now a judge of the Fulton Superior Court and was Solicitor General of the Atlanta circuit prior to his election as Governor.

The new assistant solicitor was graduated from Emory with an A. B. degree in 1934 and received his L. L. B. from the University of North Carolina in 1937. Admitted to the bar in 1937, Dorsey began the practice of law with the firm of Powell, Goldstein, Frazer & Murphy, remaining with that firm through 1941.

He entered the Army as a private in January, 1942, and served in the European theater with the 101st Airborne Division. He received a bronze star and a battlefield commission as a second lieutenant in the Parachute Field Artillery.

Discharged in December of 1945, Dorsey resumed the practice of law on his own. He is a member of Chi Phi and the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. Before joining the Army, he was secretary of the Board of Stewards of the Peachtree Road Methodist Church.

VFW Criticize Senate Terminal Pay Proposal

A resolution criticizing a U. S. Senate proposal to make enlisted veterans' terminal leave payments by five-year bonds rather than in cash has been passed by Veterans of Foreign War leaders from 15 Southern States.

Copies of the resolution were sent to senators yesterday, following a final session of the Southern Conference of the VFW here. Basil Stockbridge, of Atlanta, Department of Georgia legislative officer, declared the bond-paying amendment which the Senate wrote into the terminal leave bill was "a five-year postdated check."

VFW spokesmen pleaded here for extension of price control on "the three necessities of life—food, shelter and clothing."

Mayo W. Buckley, of Athens, Conference Chairman, said purpose of the meeting was to organize some 300,000 Southern VFW members in an attempt to seize balance of power at the national VFW convention in Boston Sept. 1-6.

LOS ANGELES, July 15—(AP)—His temperature and pulse still above normal, Howard Hughes remained in critical condition Monday in Good Samaritan Hospital, where the famous plane builder was taken a week ago Sunday after crashing his experimental photographic plane.

A bulletin issued by Hughes' physicians gave his temperature as 101½ and said his pulse was running between 120 and 140. Breathing continued painful and laborious, but Hughes had just ended three hours of restful sleep, the bulletin said.

Sunday night Dr. Verne Mason said he was optimistic over Hughes' chances for complete recovery.

Two City Attorneys Block New Cab Firm

Alleging there is no cause for action, City Attorneys Jack Savage and Charlie Murphy yesterday filed a demurrer to the petition for a writ of mandamus by which Marvin Maxey seeks to compel City Clerk J. L. Richardson to issue a license permitting Maxey to establish a new taxi company in Atlanta.

The city attorneys in the demurrer said that Richardson has no authority to grant such a license and that such is vested only in the Mayor and City Council.

It Failed Before--and It's Failed Again

From every corner of the State evidence continues to accumulate that the vast majority of Georgians have not been taken in by the campaign of prejudice and demagoguery which Eugene Talmadge has conducted.

Soundly repudiated four years ago, while running on the same phony issue, Mr. Talmadge bolstered his faltering machine with a new co-pilot—Cracker Party mouthpiece Roy Harris—and set the same unworthy course he pursued in 1942.

There were those within the Talmadge camp who argued that the former Governor could make a better showing if he admitted his previous mistakes and pledged himself to respectable conduct in case he were given another chance. These were overriden. Spearheaded by the vindictive Mr. Harris, the hate-mongers among the Talmadge strategy board have had their way.

Eugene Talmadge has run this race on a platform of bias and bigotry. He has constantly defied the Supreme Court of the United States and recommended action in open conflict with the law. He has preached hate and animosity. He has appealed to prejudice and inflamed passion. Instead, in short, of learning his lesson in 1942, he has come back in 1946 to redouble his venom, to multiply his duplicity, to reach heights of viciousness of which not even he had previously been thought capable.

In the face of this, James V. Carmichael has campaigned decorously and intelligently. He has not sunk to the level on which the increasingly desperate Talmadge has pitched his race. He has not endeavored to compete in either the mud-slinging or rabble-rousing. He has not entered the two ex-Governors' promising contest, which reached such fantastic heights as to be an insult to every Georgian who ever took second-grade arithmetic. He has offered simple honesty and decency in government and a pledge that, when elected, he will never do anything to reflect shame and discredit on those who voted for him.

The contrast between the two men could not have been more strikingly illustrated than by the campaigns which each have run.

And the thinking people of this State cannot but have made up their minds that, with such a choice, Georgia shall not again be turned over to a man who has nothing to offer but intolerance and despotism; who three times has been accorded the State's highest honor and each time has made a mockery of democracy and a laughingstock of our commonwealth.

Small wonder that in virtually every County in the State the majority of the God-fearing, respectable people will go to the polls to vote for James V. Carmichael.

Small wonder that Eugene Talmadge will be snowed under a blanket of protest at his appeals to narrow prejudice, just as his colleague in demagoguery was trounced at the polls in the recent Richmond County primary.

Congressman Gibson Was Not Misquoted

Our Washington correspondent, Gladstone Williams, caused considerable excitement yesterday with an interview wherein he stated that "the keenest political minds" in the Georgia congressional delegation were anticipating a Carmichael victory tomorrow.

Naturally, Mr. Williams did not quote a single member of the delegation, carefully refraining from putting them on the spot. One of the first rules of successful politics is never publicly to pass judgment on a race in which you are not involved.

In Atlanta, the Rivers headquarters—which somehow clings to the illusion their candidate remains a factor in the race—became exceedingly wroth at the report Georgia's delegation was according him only between 50 and 100,000 votes. They began to send indignant telegrams to Washington.

And in Washington, Congressman John S. Gibson, from Talmadge's district, started tearing his already well-rent shirt.

This, then, is to state that Rep. Gibson has made no prediction, although, he having never been quoted, it is difficult to understand how he feels he has been misquoted.

In fact, it seemed to us Mr. Williams pretty well precluded Rep. Gibson in the first place with his carefully chosen words—"the keenest political minds."

What FEPC Is He Talking About?

There is no such thing as an FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Committee).

It doesn't exist.

It was a temporary wartime committee. It expired July 1.

All efforts to make it into a permanent appendage failed.

Yet, this is the FEPC Mr. Eugene Talmadge spends most of his time talking about and warning against.

His yes-men, who read speeches written for them by headquarters, repeat the same furious rantings.

They are all talking about something that doesn't exist—a habit of Mr. Talmadge. There will be efforts, as there were in the past, to revive it. Whether they will succeed we cannot say. All that can be said is that they failed in the past. Georgia's Representatives assisted in defeating it. Sen. Richard B. Russell was the leader of the opposition in the Upper House.

It cannot possibly be a part of any Governor's race.

No Governor has, or can have, anything to do with it.

Mr. Talmadge keeps trying to stir up racial trouble when there isn't any and won't be unless he is elected and gives license to violence—such as already has begun with the burning of a Negro church in Soperton by Talmadge fanatics.

He keeps warning against a non-existent FEPC.

False issues excite the uninformed.

Don't be fooled. And we like to advise remembering a Carmichael pledge:

"I will never do anything to make you ashamed of me or to make the people ashamed of Georgia."

Can Mr. Talmadge say as much?

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Sacred Duty

Editor Constitution: It is unthinkable that the people of Georgia will permit their State to be thrown back into the darkness and discredit into which Eugene Talmadge dragged it and out of which Ellis Arnall has lifted it.

The so-called Common Man is becoming enlightened. Surely he will not allow himself to be exploited and used by the greed, selfishness and egotism of power-mad politicians. He must demand the unselfish, honest leadership to which he is entitled.

If the people of Georgia, with their eyes wide open, allow themselves again to be dragged down into the mud by Talmadge, it will take them much longer this time to recover their own strength and self-respect and their prestige in the eyes of the rest of the country. The world at last loses faith in and becomes suspicious of anyone who repeats over and over the same mistake. There is no excuse for us; we know.

With all the facts before me, I believe it to be my sacred and patriotic duty to go to the polls on July 17 and cast my vote for James V. Carmichael.

MARY CROVATT HAMBIDGE.
Rabun Gap.

Not Even From His Wife

Editor Constitution: Eugene Talmadge is no more a Democrat than Spain's Franco.

He is afraid to run on his own personal principles, because they are darn nigh nonexistent. He is the man who put labor behind barbed wire. He is the man who put Negroes in State offices first. He is the man who kicked people out of office that were elected by the people.

He has no business running in the Democratic primary. I am going to vote for Carmichael. He is the only man who can and will do anything for our State. I would vote for him against Ellis Arnall. And I don't care how many Atlanta papers are for him. I am an Atlanta man, born and bred, and I don't take orders even from my wife.

Pronunciation

Editor Constitution: Our friend Rivers seems to have great difficulty pronouncing Jimmie Carmichael's name, but after July 17 it will be easy for him, as he can just say "Governor."

Laughingstock

Editor Constitution: Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo are gone, Eugene Talmadge is joining them. His deeds have finally caught up with him. Eugene Talmadge can't face the people of Georgia any more, and he knows it. The would-be dictator, the Sage of Sugar Creek, is dead in Georgia politics. This is his last race. Never was a man more hated by the people of Georgia than Eugene Talmadge. Never has a man done more to retard the progress and growth of a state. The people of Georgia have a right to hate this man. Talmadge has made Georgia the laughingstock of the nation, during his former administrations. I talked to men from all sections of the nation during my six-year cruise in the Navy. They couldn't understand why the people of Georgia would elect a man like Talmadge as Governor. Later when Arnall became Governor I heard people from Australia to Egypt say "You have a fine Governor in Georgia." Ellis Arnall has made Georgia a State of which we should be proud. James V. Carmichael will carry on the things Ellis Arnall has started. Georgians won't be fooled by Talmadge again. He's through.

RALPH McGILL

It Was 3 Years Ago, He Was Talking

This was three years ago.

Thinking back on it, it seems longer. Much longer. In fact, it seems so much longer that it is almost incredible that it should have been but three years ago.

It was raining outside. Inside the Quonset hut it was damp and chilly. It smelled of damp blankets. Oiled flying boots and leather jackets added their smell to the whole.

It was a hut in one of the Flying Fortress Groups at a base north of Cambridge. I had grown attached to the group because of the commander, a rugged little Col. Archie J. Olds, of Atlanta, Texas. We were talking.

It was 1943. The Flying Fortresses had just got started on their hammering away at the German fortress of Europe.

It was desperate, heart-breaking work, yet it provided a stimulus to the crews which was like strong drink or an opiate. While some gave up, after a mission or so, and disappeared, others stayed on after they had completed their quota. They went back time after time, drawn by the taste and the lure of the unknown and of the desperate gamble with chance.

They flew, then, into German-held Europe. They had no accompanying craft. From the time they reached the channel or North Sea coast and were "jumped," their guns were thudding constantly with the heavy, harsh sound peculiar to the wicked .50-caliber weapon.

They flew through the heavy, greasy clouds of exploding anti-aircraft stuff. They took some of it, their craft rocking and plunging in it, flying on with great holes torn in wings or body.

Some, of course went down, spinning, smoking and at times billowing into flame.

Once they reached the target, they had to go back, some crippled, the crews of all worn out, some wounded, some dead. It was not until they reached the channel that the swift German fighter craft let them go.

Going, Coming Seeing them go was, to me, awful. I recall those breakfasts. Now and then I think of them at breakfast time, and the food still sticks to my mouth as it did on those mornings. Once as a young reporter I ate breakfast, on an order, with two men condemned to die in the electric chair.

I could never get over the feeling, at those breakfasts, that the grisly, invisible figure of death in his white robe, with his scythe swung over his shoulder, was walking up and down between the tables there in the dimly lit mess hall that reeked of breakfast smells. I could see him there, his bony finger picking out his toll for the day, as I could feel him that morning in the death house years before.

When the great craft lifted into the first pink of morning, dew streaming from the broad wings and catching the morning sun with an iridescent gleam, there was a sort of tremendous symphony of glory and tragedy and majesty singing in your heart, choking your throat, making the tears stream down your face. Ghostly faces flitted by the windows. You knew, having flown with them, what they were doing. Your heart went with them.

Waiting was bad. But the hours passed and finally you saw, with others, the returning dots. You counted, excitement rising in you, trying to see if any, and how many, were missing. You waited, as they came closer, for the explosion of a signal gun—red—which meant wounded aboard.

You saw them come down to earth and you felt tired and old as you ran for the dispersal point of "your" ship. Now and then they lifted out dead. Now and then there were wounded put hastily down beneath the shadow of a wing and given plasma to keep away a darker shadow.

Talk It was after one of these days we talked in the damp hut. I recall this night. The talk turned, as it always did, to the chance of peace and decency and a good life for mankind when war was done.

There was one young man from Texas. He was 20. As I recall his philosophy he said:

"The curse of our time is insincerity between man and man, lack of faith and confidence between man and man, and therefore between nations.

"It is this lack of faith between man and man which poisons public life; which has made of our political life one in which the demagogue may thrive and progress simply by creating less faith and confidence between man and man. It is the Judas of our time, poisoning finally even the private lives of men and of businesses, since they connive with the insincere and demagogic men by accepting it as inevitable.

"When I get back," he said, "I am going back to college and train for a career in politics. I want to see if an honest, decent approach will appeal to the people at home. I want to see if they will have any faith in themselves and their country."

Three days later he was one of those they unloaded and put into the ambulance. His faith was being tested in that land that is, the hymn says, fairer than day.

RALPH T. JONES

The Old Landmarks Fade From Memory

It is inevitable, in the march of progress, that new construction shall, first, materially replace the old buildings of the city and that, in time, memory of the old places shall grow dim, as we become accustomed to the new.

Thinking of the great buildings which have been planned and built in Atlanta since I came here in 1912, it is hard to recall what stood on those sites before.

Of course, I remember the hole which faced the old Post Office before the Healey Building was anything more than a dream in the imagination of its builder.

I remember the old block, with the old opera house—then known, I believe, as the Bijou Theater—on Marietta Street where the Palmer Building is now. And the little buildings, old and shabby, which were on Alabama Street and Broad before Rich's built there. Likewise the old Shrine Mosque, the Governor's mansion and so on, which filled the block where Davison's and the Henry Grady Hotel are. And I remember the Forsyth Theater, on the street of that name, across from the Piedmont Hotel.

There are many of the old places now gone from my own memory.

And, picturing today's Five Points, I wondered just how many years it is since the Bonita Theater presented its burlesky shows. It went, after many prosperous years, as a small portion of the site that had to be cleared for the William-Oliver Building.

Regular Patrons In my earlier Atlanta days, when I was young and sort o' crazy, I was one of the regular patrons of the Bonita. Went every week to see the new show. The stage show, that was. The picture on the screen had nothing to do with the allure. And there were many regular patrons, too.

There was no such thing as air conditioning at the Bonita, and in the Summertime the odors inside were no kin to floral perfumes. And it was hot. It called for stamina to sit through a show.

The shows weren't very good, either. Tabloids, I suppose they would be called. Perhaps a "line" of half a dozen girls, and four or five other performers, crude comedians, mostly, and raspy-throated vocalists. Or a dancer or two.

I don't believe we who went to the Bonita regularly did so because the shows were consistently good. On the contrary, they were more often than not ridiculously poor. It was hope which took us there, I think. For, occasionally, a show would come in that really entertained. Perhaps once in 10 weeks. For the other nine, we persisted in attendance, always living in hope of another good one.

Where Are They? Sometimes, when I think of all the stage performances I have seen — especially those in what might be called the lower strata of stage society, such as the Bonita and the old-style burlesque houses—I wonder what has become of the performers. All the girls in the "lines" of the chorus, the blackface and other comedians, the alleged singers, the dancers.

The ones I think of are old now, those who live. Far beyond the age when they could make a living in such shows, if there were such shows. The shows I think of have gone, though. As vaudeville has gone.

I suppose, of the sum total of the girls who cavorted in such shows 30 or 40 years ago, some are to be found in all walks of life. Some rich, some poor. Some respectable, some otherwise. Just as in any occupation.

Sometimes when I am eating lunch in a place where I see a number of ultra-respectable, expensively dressed "dowagers," I surmise that one or two of them may have, years ago, been the chorus girls who pranced and danced for our entertainment in the old years. Presumably they wouldn't confess to that past if my guess were correct.

Really, though, the chorus girls of that era did not have to display any more, if as much, as any girl does today. In those days, dresses to the knee were naughty enough for burlesque, and all the girls wore stockings or tights, so they revealed no bare cuticle.

We, of course, thought it naughty enough. When other women wore dresses that swept the ground.

How long, I wonder, since the Bonita closed after its last performance?

And where, I wonder, are those who peopled its stage through all the years when a capacity audience was the rule?

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

James V. Carmichael the Man for the Governorship

THE CHOICE IS BETWEEN DECENCY AND RACKETEERING
(Bartow Herald)

When Georgia voters go to the polls on July 17 to elect a Governor they will be given an opportunity to choose between decency in Georgia government for the next four years and racketeering. Jimmie Carmichael represents the decent element of Georgia who want to see their State keep the good name given it by Ellis Arnall these past four years.

Eugene Talmadge represents the element of Georgia politicians who gave Georgia a bad name throughout the United States through their manipulations of the State's affairs to further their own interests, enrich their friends, and exploit the people. He represents the old racketeering politicians whose policy is how much they can get out of the taxpayers, giving them as near nothing in return as possible.

Again, as four years ago, the issue is clear. It is the people of Georgia versus Talmadgeism. Four years ago the people won. They elected a man to the Governor's office who would give them steady progress, who would give them more for each tax dollar spent than any governor in the last two decades, who would give them orderliness, decency, rule by law instead of the bayonet, and help the State regain its self-respect.

Ellis Arnall gave us these things.

What did Eugene Talmadge give us? He gave us a Georgia bitterly disunited, full of fears and hatred, tension and evil. He hade a spectacle of the Governor's office, of the State of Georgia, and made its people the laughingstock of the nation. He gave us dictatorship and demagoguery. He made a mockery of the laws of Georgia and its constitution. He made a shambles of the proud name of this State and its institutions.

We believe that Jimmie Carmichael will continue to give us the type of government we have had under Ellis Arnall. We believe that Georgia will be in good hands, will continue to go forward, instead of backward. We believe that Georgia will continue to take the leading role in the South's march to industrial and agricultural prosperity. It cannot do it under the shackles of reactionary dictatorship and under a leadership that believes in serving its own instead of the people's interests.

It's either forward or backward. The people will choose which it is to be.

We believe that the forward road is with Carmichael. We believe that the backward road is with Talmadge.

That is why we are for Jimmie Carmichael for Governor and hope the people of Bartow County will give him an overwhelming majority on July 17.

CARMICHAEL FOR GOVERNOR
(Sparta Ishmaelite)

As a newspaper and supporter of decent government for Georgia we favor Jimmie Carmichael for Governor. We predict for Jimmie an overwhelming victory in Wednesday's election. More people than ever before are interested in casting their votes for a man that they can trust with affairs of State for the next four years. Our young men and women who returned home from service from all corners of the world plan to elect a Governor of whom they can be proud. They plan to go forward, not backward toward a better future for Georgia.

Some people are slow to declare themselves before an election but are always eager to crawl on the band wagon of the victor—have you ever noticed that? Hancock County has been a border county so to speak, sort of dragged over the line by a small majority for Talmadge. This won't happen on July 17, if thinking people in Hancock go to the polls and cast their vote for the only gubernatorial candidate that offers them clean and decent government for the next four years—Jimmie Carmichael.

Gene Talmadge hopes to go into office on a single plank in an unworthy platform and that's HATE. He will never be Governor of Georgia again. He is too late with too little; he has missed the bus.

"Lord God of Hosts
Be with us yet
Lest we forget
Lest we forget!"

IF TALMADGE IS ELECTED
(Quitman Free Press.)

Georgia will not be ruined but it will be set back. Talmadge has not changed . . . he is just the same as when he was acting as a petty dictator in Georgia. But Georgia has changed. Several years have gone by since the last Talmadge regime in Georgia. The war is over and thousands of young people who were in school when Talmadge was Governor, went to that war and those who did not die in battle are now home. They are seeking a way, they are looking for something better than those old sordid political ways. They can vote.

We need a young, clean, energetic man for Governor at this time. Talmadge gave Georgia nearly as much bad publicity as Huey Long gave Louisiana. In Georgia we invite industries, we seek people and money for development and expansion, we want better schools and greater opportunity. It is unthinkable that we will listen to the cheap promises of a man who has been discredited by his own acts.

Vote for Georgia . . . not for Talmadge.

ISABELLE'S SLIP SHOWING
(Sandersville Progress.)

Politics have invaded the society columns more than indirectly since Miss Isabelle Woolford has taken to the drawing room stump to endorse a gubernatorial candidate as a member of "Georgia's Country Club Set," and a young aristocrat. In setting forth her premises Miss Woolford evidently outran some of the controlled good taste which her forebears must have had if they were everything she said they were. We're afraid Miss Woolford's "traditional" slip is showing.

NEW VOTERS FOR CARMICHAEL
(Rockmart Journal)

According to estimates released by Gov. Arnall, a total of approximately one million Georgians are expected to vote in the forthcoming July 17th primary, the largest number ever to participate in an election in this State. This figure will mark a noticeable increase over a previous high registration of some 350,000 to 400,000. It shows a healthy trend in Georgia politics.

Of the approximately one million voters, about 781,000 will be white and about 116,000 Negro, Mr. Arnall estimates. Some 200,000 of the vote total will be teenage youth, he asserts, while approximately 50 percent of all voters will be women. All of these figures show conclusively that much new blood has been added to the body politic of Georgia.

The new voters in the State have caused former Governors Talmadge and Rivers, both of whom are depending to a great extent for their support on old-line political machines, a great deal of worry. The worry is due to the fact that all polls which have been conducted in the State in recent weeks show that the preponderance of the new vote is going to Carmichael, and especially has such proved true regarding the 200,000 youth voters.

Uncommitted and indifferent, to the false pleas of Rivers and Talmadge, these new voters will be the deciding factor in many counties in the primary of July 17. In fact, they'll succeed in turning many a so-called dyed-in-the-wool Talmadge or Rivers county into the Carmichael column.

The young people and the women of Georgia want decent government such as we have had for the past four years continued. They know that Carmichael is the only candidate in the race who offers that.

That's why they're going to see that the Marietta candidate is elected as Arnall's logical successor.

If This Be Color, Talmadge Can Have It

"There's just one thing I don't like about Carmichael," says this lady on the telephone. "He's got no color."

"No color?" says I.

"No color," says she. "He doesn't wear red suspenders or a black bow tie or a 10-gallon hat. He doesn't carry a string quartet or a jug band around with him wherever he goes. He doesn't have gravy on his vest, tobacco juice on his chin and sen-sen on his breath. He doesn't whoop and holler and rant and rave. He doesn't cuss the Government and defy the courts. He's only running against his opponents and not Henry Wallace, Premier Stalin, Jim Cox and Old Black Joe. Why, he hasn't even promised to pave every road in the state, much less build a hospital and junior college in every county."

"Oh," says I. "No color."

"Yes," says she. "No color. He's just a plain, ordinary businessman. He isn't surrounded with a lot of bootleggers and numbers racket men and medicine show doctors. When night comes he goes home to his wife and family. He never threw off on President Roosevelt's affliction or called the CCC boys bums and loafers. Chances are he doesn't even know Gerald L. K. Smith. You see what I mean?"

"Yep," says I. "No color."

"Right," says she. "No color. If he's elected there won't be any barbed-wire concentration camps for textile workers or cows grazing on the mansion lawn or dynamiting the State treasury to get at the money quicker. The National Guard will probably just sit around with nothing to do. He won't run special trains to haul away the State employes he fires and bring in his friends and relatives to fill the jobs. He won't always be popping off in the public print and holding Georgia up to ridicule in the eyes of the nation. That's why I wonder if he knows what he's doing in the race. There's one thing we Georgians demand in a Governor . . ."

"I know," says I. "That's color."

Despite all pessimistic tales the world is not so bad,
Although we walk depression's vales at times and think it sad
And though we often rail at fate or hate the human race,
No one's discovered, up to date, one-half so good a place.

Through many errors and through trials, we prove the statement true
That if you give the world your smiles it often smiles at you;
Let circumstances dire descend, before we take too much
Most of us have some faithful friend who helps us in the clutch.

This does not mean that all the folks are of the helpful clan;
The world is full of selfish blokes who gyp you if they can.
You must be ever on alert and view the world askance,
Or you may lose your coat and shirt, suspenders and your pants.

It's good to know that help awaits us all along the way,
Such as the act that illustrates our lesson for today . . .
A perfect stranger comes along, a friend he'd never met,
Reminding him of something . . . he was trying to forget.

CHANNING COPE

Permanency Makes For Good Farming

One of the nicer things about the latest style in farming is that the possessor of land is not afraid to plant trees or other permanent crops upon it. Newer farming, or easy farming, or modern farming, or whatever name one cares to give the enlightened methods of farming, contemplates the farmer living upon his own land and in developing it as a homestead for himself and his family. A farmer, by the accepted up-to-date definition, is a man who lives on the farm. And, by the same token, is one who practices farming as a way of life.

Out here at Yellow River, we are blessed with four stately oaks hovering over our home and protecting, shading and shielding it, not only from the elements, but from the very appearance of harm. These oaks were planted in 1875 by Grandpa E. P. Hammond, who only recently departed this earth after an active life of 93 years. About one year ago, Grandpa Hammond visited us here at the farm to take note of the changes made during the years he had lived elsewhere. He was very much interested in the various changes but the thing that fascinated him was the amazing growth and development of these trees. He recalled setting out the trees and it was hard for him to accept the fact that they had now become giants. He was very happy over the fact that the trees were thriving and would apparently last for another hundred years. One could discern Mr. Hammond's pride as he realized that the trees would remain on here as monuments to him and his foresight, long years after he had passed on.

MANY TIMES we have been tempted to move our dwelling place to some other part of the farm but the trees have made this impossible. We could not bring ourselves to move away from them even though we could have had a new home in place of the present rambling, hodge-podge, which we now call home. To leave these trees would be the equivalent of deserting our dearest friends, as indeed they are, in countless ways. They shelter and cool us. They house hundreds of our feathered friends who make life pleasant and interesting for us with their songs and chatter. Most of all, they represent home and permanent values. When we drive over the hill leading to the valley and our domain, the most meaningful sight we grasp at once, is the mountainous clump of green grouped together around the little building we call home. It would be hard for us to imagine living any other place. Even if the house were not there under the trees, it is entirely possible that we would instinctively head for the spot where the trees stand and come to rest there, naturally.

The wise old Scotsman who told his son to plant a tree whenever he had time, knew what he was talking about. So it is with Kudzu and other perennials. To plant permanent crops is to build for future generations as well as our own. Countless others who follow us, will have occasion to call us blessed, for they will inherit the results of our goodwill and foresight. These permanent improvements come naturally as a by-product of living upon one's own land and treating it as the source of most of his pleasure.

Mr. Garsson's Background

NEW YORK—While the Mead Committee of the Senate dwells on the case of Murray Garsson's so-caller paper empire in the war profiteering investigation, it might be appropriate for some inquisitive group to go back over his earlier career in the government service as an assistant to the Secretary of Labor in immigration cases. The Treasury intelligence no doubt has taken the hint already for here is one of the gaudiest adventurers of our time.

Garsson was chief investigator for the Sabath Committee of Congress which investigated the reorganization of real estate promotions and other busted bubbles of the boom. Some excellent, conscientious lawyers served that committee as counsel but, as one of them recalled today, Garsson, notwithstanding his past and his reputation, which was not good, was "in control of the investigation and had the confidence of Congressman Adolph Sabath," of Chicago, the Chairman. Sabath had no excuse and his explanations should be examined with a cold, skeptical eye. This attorney readily acknowledged that any man in Garsson's position could have deceived him and other lawyers and the committee. He could have directed the inquiry away from the interests of those who were kind to him or misrepresented situations in their favor to the detriment of victimized investors. He has now been found in association with the notorious Willie Bioff, and other rascals in Hollywood, in 1937, the last year of the investigation, and it has been determined that Bioff got 500 shares of Continental Can and 500 of Consolidated Oil from Joe Schenck, of Twentieth Century-Fox, in Hollywood, the day before Schenck, of Twentieth Century-Twentieth Century-Fox for $130,000 for Garsson's account. The stock later was sold for $110,000. Bioff knew Garsson and testified, in his trial for extortion, that Schenck loaned Garsson $200,000. Some of Schenck's own interests were involved in the reorganizations under Congressional inquiry.

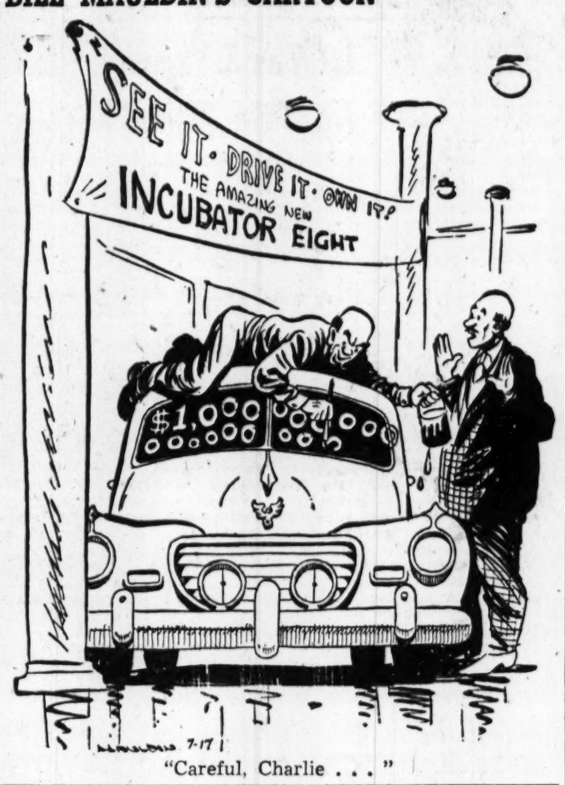

From 1930 to 1932, Garsson had been a special assistant to William Doak, Herbert Hoover's secretary of Labor. He was in absolute control over the investigation and prosecution of immigration and naturalization frauds. Here he was in a position to walk onto a movie set, in the midst of a production, and cause the deportation of an essential foreign actor.

The New York police records corroborate the data on Garsson which the FBI supplied to the Mead Committee recently and contain one earlier entry which seems not to have been mentioned in the FBI report. This item is an arrest of one Wolf Garsson on March 17, 1909, at the age of 18, on a charge of robbery. The old record does not say what was the outcome, noting only that bail was discharged. This was before the adoption of the finger-print system so there is a possibility that the identity was incorrect, although this entry is contained in the record of Murray Garsson. Another entry states that Murray Garsson was detained as a material witness in a homicide case in the Bronx in October, 1918.

ABOUT 15 months ago, when Garsson was thriving on war production, he called at the office of Frank Hogan, the New York District Attorney, to complain that he had been swindled in a real estate deal by a well-known real estate operator. He said he had given the man, whom he accused, a large sum in currency for a real estate speculation and that the other man had defrauded him. He produced no books or records, however, and the District Attorney's office refused to act, suspecting that he was trying to use the District Attorney to collect a debt. He spoke in large figures and said he had made $80,000 in one year from just one of his munition companies and mentioned the Erie Basin Metal Products Company, one of his war babies, now under investigation. His final figure in the story of the swindle was $26,000, in currency, unsupported by records, reduced from a much larger original claim. An acquaintance reports that during his war boom he went about New York carrying as much as $50,000 or $75,000 in currency in his pockets.

While he may not be the top money-maker of the recent crusade to establish the four freedoms and succor the oppressed he may easily hold his position as the most audacious, and picturesque, his past being considered. Hundreds of New York politicians and lawyers knew him and only as a shady character who had frequent skirmishes with the law. Despite this reputation, he found political sponsors to put him into two government jobs representing powerful temptations to graft in large amounts, being sent out by Congressman Sabath to expose crooks, and, finally, under the patronage of Congressman May, of Kentucky, received war contracts to a total of $74,000,000 for decoy companies that produced trifling amounts.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

A Countrywoman Writes

Editor Constitution: Due to illness, I am late in sending this to you; but I am not late in my support of James V. Carmichael. I have been supporting Mr. Carmichael ever since 1942, when I first heard him speak in behalf of the candidacy of Ellis Arnall. His high moral concept of government and the forceful expression of his ideals of dedicated service could but leave him a marked man when that campaign had been safely won. For four years I have watched him grow in stature, serving his community, his State and his country through the harsh years of war with the same unswerving devotion to duty with which we shall see him serve as Governor in the coming years of peace. He has seen the need of his people. He has felt the hand of destiny laid upon him. He has heard the call of duty, and, in the same spirit of dedicated service, he has answered, "Here am I." If this be sentimentalism, let his opponents make the most of it They may sneer and scoff, but in their hearts they know that they would give much if they could stand where Jimmie Carmichael stands today, young with the vigor of disciplined youth, strong with the power of a tested strength, proud with the pride of the respect and honor of those who know him best.

There can be no question in the mind of any thoughtful man or woman, 18 years old or over, that Georgia stands at the crossroads of her history today. Four years ago we turned our backs upon the ways of plunder and of pillage in public office, of threat and tyranny, of frustration and of fear. As our youth, joined with the youth of all races and of all lands, fought these forces of evil upon the far-flung battlefields, we fought them here at home. In these four years we have made much progress toward a liberal and enlightened government. Today we must defend these gains, nor break our stride in the forward march. Today our youth joins forces, regardless of race or creed, to hold the line; tomorrow we must advance. There can be no retreat.

As a member of the League of Women Voters, I believe that Mr. Carmichael will stand with us in his declared position upon the issues of our sponsored legislation. We deal not in personalities but in principles and policies. We know ourselves to be a powerful force in government today and we can but admire a candidate who is wise enough to recognize this force and to work with us.

As a member of the Georgia Conference on Social Welfare, I believe that Mr. Carmichael will devote more time and study to the vast needs of our welfare program than any Governor we have ever had. I believe that his heart will be in this work and that neither politics nor expediency will deter him.

As a countrywoman, I believe that Mr. Carmichael will be concerned with rural problems, the self-same problems of our entire State. He will see that the health of Georgia depends upon our health here in the country; that the education of Georgia depends upon the education of our most remote county; that the prosperity of Georgia depends upon the economic progress of our farming people. He will know that our roads are, literally, the foundations of our lives. Health, education, economic development, all wait upon good roads in the farthest reaches of the most remote rural County.

As a churchwoman especially concerned with the study of Christian social relations, I believe that Mr. Carmichael will devote every effort toward the establishment of our bi-racial civilization upon the more permanent foundations firmly based upon the Christian principles of justice and right. In every such society that the world has ever known, where minority people look for leadership in their first steps toward qualified citizenship, mutual trust and confidence are first essentials. The happiness of our Georgia peoples, both white and Negro, depends upon such leadership. We are not deceived by the false prophets of fear. We know that upon the principles of justice and of right depend today's happiness and tomorrow's peace In that knowledge we shall elect James V. Carmichael and insure that happiness and that peace.

Social Equality?

Editor Constitution: Whenever the American people indulge themselves in a political campaign, they seem to lose all sense of values. They attack all questions with emotion instead of calmly weighing them with sober reasoning. It is a part of every campaign to belittle opposition to the extent of mud-slinging. Statements are made by some candidates without any regard to their truth. One of our leading candidates for the presidency a while ago said when faced later with some of his false statements that they should be regarded as campaign propaganda and not examples of exact truth.

Among the things that have been said in this campaign is one that probably has not been questioned, at least I have not seen it questioned in print. An acquaintance, a rabid partisan, told me the other day in reference to the affair at the University when Talmadge ousted a professor, "Well, they never reinstated Cocking." Talmadge made a very similar statement a short time ago and I have seen a letter in one of our daily papers to the same effect.

This leaves a very bad impression in the minds of thoughtless people. It would imply that Talmadge was right and that the Board of Regents could do nothing. As a matter of fact, the Board did reinstate Cocking. They tried their best to re-employ him, but Mr. Cocking had been offered a far better job. Pittman, who was ousted at the same time, came back but the Talmadge people never mention this at any time.

There is another statement emphasized which we cannot seem to consider calmly, and that is the cry if the Negro has the ballot it means social equality. Just because a Negro votes in a booth where I vote does not mean that we have established social equality. The question is really more fundamental than social equality. Is the Negro a citizen of this country? Does the Negro pay taxes? If so, then we have no right to place him under any different qualifications than the white man. This country once went to war on the slogan, "No taxation without representation." That slogan still stands. The Negro should have the same right to say who will govern him as does any white man, if he meets these qualifications. It is not a matter of social equality at all. F. A. MERRILL.

Gene a Revolutionist?

Editor Constitution: I think your newspaper has made a slight error in calling Talmadge a dictator, for he is not one; he is a revolutionist. He's trying to get the Negroes to riot. That would suit him fine to see this riot.

In Defense Of Scientists

WASHINGTON—Oyez! Oyez! Oyes!

Bring in the prisoners, the young men of science from Oak Ridge, Tenn., the young men with a bomb on their brains like a festering tumor. Let them be shackled with chains forged of true steel, far stronger than the conscience of mankind. Let them walk in slow and measured tread, lockstep, with a ball to hobble their young feet.

And let the crier go before them and call out in the voice of doom: "Shame! Shame! Shame!"

And let a guard of husky young men of the Army surround them, bayonets fixed.

If you please, your honor, let Ernie Adamson, counsel of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, read the indictment and proceed with this awful case.

GO AHEAD, Mr. Adamson, with your indictment.

"That these Oak Ridge societies are composed of young men classified as scientific researchers or engineers." (Shame on them, shame on science!)

"The activities of these societies are devoted to the creation of some form of world government." (Horrendous! That puts them in a class with Bernard M. Baruch and Owen J. Roberts, who once sat on the Supreme Court, and a man named Harry S. Truman.)

"These societies are very active in support of international civilian control of the manufacture of atomic materials." (Shame on them, and shame on Harry S. Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes and Bernard M. Baruch again, and the leaders of England and Canada and France and Russia and Australia and all the other United Nations. Shame!)

"The officers whose statements we have taken not only admit communication with persons outside the United States, but in substance say they intend to continue this practice." (Lock them away on bread and water, with no pen and ink handy.)

"THE SECURITY OFFICERS at Oak Ridge think that the peace and security of the United States is definitely in danger." (The military, then, is still the military, age without end.)

"The CIO is now making a desperate effort to unionize all workers of the reservation. We took statements from the CIO and AFL organizers. The CIO organizer was very militant and seems to be in close contact with the members of the scientific societies." (Throw them in the darkest dungeon, where they may ponder their pride and learn meekness.)

"If jurisdiction and control of the Oak Ridge reservation passes into civilian hands, the political plans for exploiting the place are well advanced and there would undoubtedly be trouble in the reservation within six months." (Thomas Jefferson lived not far away. Hang him in effigy, too.)

"My conclusion, based upon the investigation up to date, is that the Army should exercise permanent control over the manufacture of atomic weapons." (Bring the Senate of the United States before the bar. It must be tried, too. It voted against Army control. Traitorous!)

The case is completed, thank you, Mr. Adamson.

Take the prisoners away. They are guilty. The hangman's knot, the electric chair, the guillotine are too humane. Put them to the rack and tear their limbs from bodies and remove that great weight from their souls and their consciences.

All Over After Tomorrow

I will be a very happy man when this race for Governor is over, and Georgia can settle back down to normal again. A man who writes for a living, trying to do a piece for the paper every day, has to get out and move around and talk to a lot of people about a lot of things. You just try getting out and moving around in Georgia now and talking to a lot of people about a lot of things! You can talk to a lot of people all right. But they want to talk about politics.

I do not wish to talk about politics. Everybody is talking about politics, and writing about politics. I take my politics just as seriously as anybody else, and if you wish to be enlightened on political matters you just come around to my house some time and I will talk politics until you do not wish to hear any more about the matter whatsoever. It will be a fruitless evening, of course, because you won't change me and I won't change you and we are liable to get mad and shout at each other. But we will both enjoy it.

Or Chillun But I do not wish to write about politics. Everybody else in the paper is writing about politics except Celestine Sibley and she is writing about her younguns, dogone her, when I want to write about my younguns. You can't have everybody in the paper who is not writing about politics, writing about their younguns. Pretty soon people will get tired of politics and other people's younguns, too.

There must be something else going on in Georgia except politics, but you wouldn't know it to talk to people. It used to be the easiest thing in the world just to get in a car and ride in any direction and pull up at a filling station or a country store and sit around awhile, and pretty soon somebody had spun a yarn that would make a good piece for the paper—something with the very humor and feel and flavor of Georgia in it.

Now you can't get folks to talking, except about politics. There is no topic of conversation which does not lead to a discussion of candidates and how they are running. Funny thing about it is, you do not hear much talk in political discussions about who is the best man. It is all about who is the worst man, which leads to heated words, naturally, and hard feelings, and nothing in the way of a piece for the paper.

Suspicion Another thing about it, a newspaperman out traveling around now is looked upon with suspicion. Nobody will believe he is just out and about, trying to see what goes on. How folks are living, and what they are thinking about, besides politics—so he can write a piece for the paper that folks of all different political allegiances can be interested in. They think he is out beating the bushes for the candidate which his paper is supporting. Which is not so, of course, but you cannot convince people of it.

I have had the experience, for instance, of spending a half hour talking with a man whose political allegiance I neither knew or cared about on some subject as remote from politics as hog raising, the boll weevil, atom bomb and the relative merits of concrete blocks as a building material. The next man I talked to, assuming that the previous conversation had been on political matters, would tell me in strictest confidence that the other fellow was just a big wind-bag who did not know what he was talking about and that the noble citizenry of that county would go 100 percent for that great leader So-and-So. And he wouldn't believe it, either, when I'd tell him we'd talked about hogs, atom bombs and concrete blocks and that neither So-and-So's name nor his chances had been mentioned.

Tough Going It makes it tough, and I guess it would have been easier to have gone strictly partisan way back yonder. That way I'd have been a hero to a lot of folks and a louse to a lot of others. Which would have been all right, for I'd at least have had a good fiery piece for the paper every day, instead of working my head off in this hot weather trying to dig a good-reading story out of folks who don't want to talk about anything but how the votes will fall tomorrow.

It will be all over after tomorrow, though—the strain and the bitterness and the tension and the temper. And Georgia can settle down to four years, I hope, of government she won't have to be ashamed of.

IRRESISTIBLE GOOD

Who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?—I Peter 3:13.

If our faith in God has any value it must be practicable. Of course it is a private, personal experience; but it touches life at all points, and accordingly is not to be silenced. Our testimony is not as eloquent as it should be if it be confined to the sanctuary. Positively did Peter declare: "The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and His ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil." We may not foresee His providence, but we can step out confidently upon it, assured that He will perfect that which concerns His children.

Talmadge Assails Wallace In Wilkes County Appeal

WASHINGTON, Ga., July 15—Ex-Gov. Talmadge, in a speech here Monday afternoon, urged every white Georgian to "strike a blow on July 17 against outsiders seeking for selfish reasons to dictate whom Georgians shall elect Governor and for the security and racial integrity of unborn generations of Georgians."

"The whole country is fed up—absolutely fed up —" he said, "on Henry Wallace and his atheistic crew seeking to bring about a social revolution modeled after the Moscow plan in the United States. The political pendulum is swinging back from the extreme where Wallace in his prime carried it. My election will stimulate the whole movement back to sanity and to reason.

"I do not say that 'Benedict' Arnall ever had the wit to be a social revolutionary. I doubt if he ever read Rousseau, or Marx or Sorel, but I do say that Wallace, seeing that Arnall was an opportunist and greedy for publicity, used him as a tool in the most daring, and the most successful, assault on Southern and Georgia traditions in our time.

"When Arnall stood by and gloated without raising a finger to save the white primary and when he opened our primary to the horde of illiterate Negroes without the slightest qualification except their animosity towards me, he committed a crime against Georgia that he will live to regret. The Rosenwald and the carpetbagger press had indeed prepared the way for his despicable act, but he and it reckoned without the radio, without the just resentment of all true Georgians, and without the power of the human voice."

reported willing to make a full confession of the three slayings and of many burglaries—some estimates ran as high as 100—in an effort to cheat the electric chair.

Some progress toward the exchange of a confession and a plea of guilty for life imprisonment was understood reliably to have been made in conferences Sunday between the State's Attorney and defense attorneys.

However, both sides declined comment. All of them Monday denied or declined comment on the revelation of a confession. Chief of Detectives Storms said he had no knowledge of any admissions and could neither confirm or deny the report. State's Atty. William Tuohy and Mal Coghlan, one of Heirens' attorneys, said they knew nothing about it.

The United Press, however, considered its sources to be unimpeachable.

Details of the admissions were revolting.

The Degnan child, a curly haired blonde girl, was stolen from her Northside home shortly before 2 a. m. last Jan. 7. She was garroted and beheaded, then dismembered. The parts of her body were hidden in sewers near her home at 4943 Kenmore Ave. The kidnaper left a ransom note demanding $20,000.

Heirens first was linked with the Degnan killing through fingerprints found on the ransom note. Police announced, and the FBI confirmed, that one of his fingerprints was found in Miss Brown's apartment.

Miss Brown, who had been honorably discharged from the WAVES only three months before her death last Dec. 10, was found half-kneeling across the bathtub in her apartment. She had been shot through the head and right arm. She had been stabbed in the left chest. Her body was bruised. A 10-inch bread knife had been thrust into her skull at the base and left there.

On the wall of her apartment was scrawled in red lipstick:

"For heaven's sake catch me before I kill more. I cannot control myself."

Twenty-eight days later little Suzanne was kidnaped and slain.

Mrs. Ross was found dead in her apartment at 4108 Kenmore Ave., about eight blocks from the Degnan home. Her throat was slashed four times. A stocking was wrapped tightly around her neck. She had been stabbed repeatedly as she lay in bed.

A wound in her neck had been carefully washed and covered with adhesive tape. Her body had been washed clean of blood. Her nightclothes had been rinsed in a bathtub. Twelve dollars was missing from her purse.

Police said that Heirens, who once lived in the Degnan neighborhood, had been a delivery boy for a liquor store in the area.

He knew the neighborhood well and it was here, not far from the Degnan home, that he was captured in daylight attempting to burglarize an apartment. His gun misfired and he was knocked unconscious by Policeman Abner Cunningham who, dressed only in bathing trunks and robe, had joined the chase while returning home from a beach.

SOX AND SOX—Contestants in the forthcoming Soap Box Derby are enthralled by Dell O'Dell, lady magician, as she makes little sox out of big ones. Rich's Boys' Department entertained the entrants with a party yesterday in the store's Magnolia Room.

A Chaplain Speaks For Boys Who Died

An Army chaplain, declaring he was keeping his promise to the boys he served that "I would live for what they died for," has lashed at anyone who agitates racial trouble for personal gains.

The Rev. Joseph T. Walker, who was awarded the Bronze Star with citation for "heroic achievement on the battlefield" in the European theater, spoke in the interest of Jimmie Carmichael for Governor in a WSB broadcast yesterday. He said the South had no "race issue," and denounced those who would try to stir up one for political gains.

150 Youngsters Attend Party For Soap Boxers

The candlelit elegance and calm of Rich's Magnolia Room at teatime was disturbed yesterday by the shrieks of 150 boisterous youngsters.

Rich's boys' department gave a party for the entrants in the Soap Box Derby to be held July 27 under the sponsorship of the Chevrolet Division, General Motors and The Constitution.

The boys, all between the ages of 11 and 15, swarmed through Rich's tearoom and shrieked over Dell O'Dell, the lady magician. They grabbed for the dollar bills that Dell pulled out of the air, screamed when she yanked a rabbit out of a locked box and yelled with abandon when she began making bottles disappear.

The contestants sobered a little to watch the moving picture of the 1941 International Soap Box Derby and a sports film, "Swim or Sink."

Then they ate their ice cream and cake and went home to work a little harder on their racing cars —each determined to win the motor scooter, the bicycle or the watches offered as prizes in the Derby.

CAB To Review Appeals for Latin Routes

The Civil Aeronautics Board, in a decision handed down in Washington, has voted to reconsider its action whereby Atlanta was bypassed on Latin American airplane traffic.

In a decision, made public yesterday, the CAB announced they were reopening the case which they closed on May 17 with an announcement that Pan American should run direct from Havana and San Juan to New York.

Eastern, Colonial and National Airlines has applied for South American routes, but the CAB's May decision virtually closed the door on them. Reopening of the case, local observers pointed out, indicates the CAB is now giving careful consideration to the other airlines appeal, and that if Eastern Airlines is permitted a route into the Caribbean and South American ports, then Atlanta will become a still greater aviation center.

"This decision of the CAB," said Mayor Hartsfield, "means Atlanta will have a chance, along with other Southeastern cities, to present its arguments to the Board and show that direct one carrier service should be given to us. Eastern Air Lines is our carrier making this petition and since Eastern serves the greatest majority of cities along the main line of North-South air traffic, we think it only fair they should be allowed to go on to Havana and other Latin-American points. As matters now stand, Atlanta and other Southeastern cities are completely bypassed through routes previously granted to Pan-American to fly direct from Havana to New York and to other airlines to go into Cuba via Houston and New Orleans. We do not envy these cities their additional direct service to Cuba and Latin-America. We only want Atlanta to have the same facilities."

Torras Plan For Belt Road Under Study

State, federal and county engineers have "taken under advisement" a plan offered by City Planning Engineer Raymond Torras which calls for a wide belt highway around the entire downtown section of Atlanta.

State Highway Director George McDonald said last night the group had reached "no agreement on the plan at this stage. He said the city was asked to submit its plans "in black and white" at a later conference. Torras reportedly was instructed to get approval by City Council of several projects so they may have further action by State and federal authorities.

The Torras proposal also called for construction of another viaduct west of the present Spring St. viaduct, connecting on the north with Techwood Dr., and on the southwest with Chapel St. It asked elimination of grade crossings at Moreland Ave. and the Georgia Railroad and at West North Ave. and the N., C. & St. L. Railroad. And it called for elimination of traffic bottlenecks in the present system as recommended in the Lochner traffic plan.

The Torras suggestion was a modification of the Lochner Plan, which he said was too expensive and would not solve the downtown traffic problem. The Lochner Plan would cost an estimated $47,000,000 to install. Torras did not know how much the modified plans would cost.

B. P. McWhorter, Southeastern Division Engineer of the Public Roads Administration, warned the conference that unless preliminary surveys have been completed and working plans drawn by early 1947 at least $1,500,000 in State and federal funds which have been earmarked for Atlanta projects will be lost.

OPA

House Labor Committee that Congress had better remain in session until an effective OPA bill is passed.

"We have national unrest, national chaos and a Congress that is derelict in its duties," he declared. "There is only one kind of sound (OPA) bill and that is one that will keep prices down."

If Congress fails to revive controls, he said, the "greatest economist in America, the American housewife" will see that a Congress is elected in November "which will serve them."

Administration leaders set a House vote for Tuesday on their frantic efforts to get the Senate-approved bill—perforated with bans on price ceilings for numerous commodities—to a House-Senate conference committee, in hope of working out a compromise acceptable to the President.

But Rep. Wolcott, Republican, Michigan, who has supported modified OPA legislation, told newsmen "the situation seems rather hopeless, except for the possible extension of rent controls."

In its crucial decision, the House may do one of three things:

1. Send the Senate bill to the White House without further ado, risking a veto. OPA opponents are lining up behind such a maneuver.

2. Send the bill to a Senate-House conference committee, for an effort toward a compromise.

3. Toss it to the conference committee, but with stipulations that the House wants certain things added or removed, in the Senate bill.

Chairman Spence, Democrat, Kentucky, of the House Banking Committee, declared the House opposition is "trying to railroad" the Senate bill to the White House, in the hope of a veto and ultimate end of the agency.

Wolcott said he would seek to send the Senate bill to a conference committee, with a view of "exhausting all efforts toward an acceptable compromise."

character" who "ought to be run out of town."

Turning to questions about May's activities in behalf of the combine, Gellman said he met May when the Congressman attended ceremonies at Elgin, Ill., in connection with an "E" award to the Erie Basin Company. The Congressman, he said, "sat on the platform as one of the dignitaries," but insisted he had nothing to do with invisiting May to be present.

He testified he had heard Murray Garsson speak of May. He described Garsson as "a very sociable person" who talked freely about the "important people" he knew in Washington, the cocktail parties he had attended and pinochle games he had taken part in.

Freeman was the day's first witness.

Coughing frequently, and complaining that he was "supposed to be resting in California" from a recent illness, the witness said that he "never gave Congressman May anything."

"I never asked him anything I wouldn't ask anyone else," he added.

Previous witnesses have testified that May "pressured" the War Department to get things done for various companies in the Illinois group.

The Congressman, characterizing the inquiry as an "inquisition" and picturing himself as the victim of intimidation, told the House last week that he did no more for the concerns than any other member of Congress would have done, and that he gained no personal profit from his activities.

Freeman, who has been a key figure in the investigations as the result of his connections with the Illinois combine, presented himself as a man whose salary in 1941, before becoming associated with the companies, was $5,800. Three years later it had risen to $70,000. He said that he received a 1945 salary of $22,500, $7,500 in expenses from one firm, and $29,000 from another.

"That's all," he concluded.

The witness said he had nothing to do with obtaining contracts, E-awards or advance payments from the Government, and that his sole job was "to see that everything was forthcoming to get production."

"What high military officers did you contact?" asked Chairman Mead.

"I had no dealings with what you call the high officials," Freeman replied in a barely audible voice. "I was the fellow down below."

"Did you ever contact Congressman May?"

"I have."

"How often?"

"Probably six or eight times—maybe more."

He said these contacts related to his job of solving materials and manpower problems.

Freeman said he visited the Military Affairs Committee Chairman "two or three times" at his office at the Capitol, but denied that May had ever visited his own office in downtown Washington.

"Was the Congressman co-operative?" Mead asked.

"Not always," Freeman replied. "Sometimes he was very busy and I would have to wait a week to see him."

"Did you ever deliver any funds to Congressman May, checks or cash?"

"I never delivered anything to Congressman May," the witness replied.

Disabled Vets Advocate New Service Board

Henry H. Green, Legislative Chairman for the Georgia Department, Disabled American Veterans, said yesterday his organization was advocating the appointment of a new State Veterans Service Board.

He said the Disabled American Veterans in annual convention last month at Macon had adopted a resolution urging that the Board be made up of at least one member from each of the following organizations: Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Purple Heart, Jewish War Veterans and the Spanish-American War Veterans.

Green said the resolution was not made public at the time because his group wanted to wait and determine if the Legion in its July convention at Savannah would take any action on the proposal. The Legion did not adopt a similar resolution, Green said.

The resolution Green made public criticized the administration of C. Arthur Cheatham as Director of the State Veterans Service Office. Green said the present Board included five Legion members and two from other veterans' organizations.

Says Chandler Paid Entrance Fee of Kendrick

In answer to an allegation by Henry W. Chandler, President of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, that I. Gloer Hailey is responsible for his contesting the seat of Fulton County Rep. Cicero Kendrick, Luther Alverson, in turn, charges that Chandler paid the entrance fee of Kendrick.

Alverson's statement, in part, follows:

"Labor Boss Kendrick and Henry Chandler, President of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, are trying every political trick in an effort to divert the attention of the public from the real issues of this campaign.

"The real issues are that Chandler paid the entrance fee of Labor Boss Kendrick in this race which amounted to $250, and that the Atlanta Federation of Trades has contributed to his campaign fund and that he admittedly is their candidate.

"It is a matter of public record that the Atlanta Federation of Trades was opposed to the County Manager Bill and that Kendrick killed this bill during the last session of the Legislature and that his hands are tied to them."

In his statement supporting Kendrick, Chandler quoted, in part, a letter which he said he received from Gov. Arnall in which the Governor spoke well of Kendrick. In this regard, Alverson says:

"Kendrick is so desperate that he has injected into this campaign during the closing days an old letter from Gov. Arnall trying to mislead the people of Fulton County into believing that Gov. Arnall has indorsed him, whereas in fact the letter has nothing to do with the campaign. It is simply another example of political trickery that is being used by Kendrick in order to try to save his skin.

"Gov. Arnall knows that Kendrick is a labor boss and that Kendrick gave as his reason for voting against the Arnall Amendment that he was obligated to Roy Harris, the Speaker of the House. Gov. Arnall has not consented to Kendrick's use of this aged letter in this campaign and resents its use. Gov. Arnall has authorized me to make this statement, and the same may be verified by calling him at the State Capitol."

ANOTHER LADY IS FREE OF STOMACH GAS AND HEADACHE

One lady said recently that her stomach used to be like a "gas factory!" That is, when she ate a meal it seemed to turn right into gas. She was always bloated, had awful stomach gas pains, daily headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Now, however, this lady says she is FREE of STOMACH GAS and she says the change is due to taking INNER-AID. Her meals agree with her. No gas or bloat after eating. Headaches and constipation are gone. "Oh! what relief!" states this lady. "Why don't other gas and constipation sufferers get INNER-AID?"

INNER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID. Sold by all drug stores.—(adv.)

Milk Pasteurization Law Is Passed by City Council

By CLARK HOWELL, JR.

The City Council unanimously passed an ordinance yesterday requiring all fluid milk sold in Atlanta to be pasteurized.

The ordinance, which requires pasteurization of all of the 49,000 gallons of milk consumed daily in Atlanta, is expected to be signed by Mayor Hartsfield this week and will become effective 12 months from the date of passing by Council. At present 89 percent of the milk consumed in Atlanta is pasteurized.

A bill to raise the wages of Negro labor roughly 5 to 7 cents an hour was introduced and was referred to Finance and Budget Committees for further study. The bill would increase city costs approximately $30,000 a year.

E. A. Gilliam, Chairman of the Finance Committee, said the bill would result in a raise in pay for all city employes and that in many cases it would create the situation of colored labor receiving more than white employes.

The bill was introduced supposedly as a stop-gap to a rumored garbage strike, but Gilliam said he had heard no direct word there would be such a strike called.

H. J. Cates, Chief of the City Sanitary Department, said earlier in the day that while there was no immediate alarm concerning a city garbage strike, it was becoming increasingly difficult to get employes to collect garbage during the summer months.

Present wage scale for the employes of the City Sanitary Department is 58¼ cents per hour, plus 5 cents per hour bonus if the employes work 48 hours a week.

The Sanitary Department currently collects around 350 tons of garbage daily. Cates told the Council an interruption in the collection of the city garbage for even one day would result in an extremely serious situation.

The Council re-elected H. H. Gibson to a four-year term as Superintendent of the City Prison Farm.

Other measures passed by the Council were:

1. Making the west side of Whitehall St. between Park and Gordon Sts. a no-parking area from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m., and one hour-parking from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

2. Approving the installation of trackless trolleys instead of street cars on the Marietta-Howell Mill Rd. line.

3. Approving $500 transportation expense for four public link golfers to represent the City of Atlanta at the National Golf tournament at Denver.

4. Transferring $2,000 from the contingent account to the Department of Parks for converting a house in East Lake Park to a community building.

New Type School Helps Veterans Find Right Jobs

A new type school, a school designed to aid veterans in securing the kind of job they want, has been opened by the Veterans' Service Center at 75 Cone St., Northwest.

This school, called the Job-placement clinic, is directed by John D. Adams, who is a member of the National Vocational Council.

He says, "Veterans are experiencing difficulties in finding the jobs they want. Our clinic was founded to give them instructions on how to sell themselves to employers and to give them contacts from our files of prospective employers. In our regular meetings we first have a general class on job finding and then we deal with individual problems. We urge all veterans who are having trouble in finding jobs to come to our classes."

The meetings are held twice a week, at eight o'clock on Wednesday and Friday nights.

Nazi Who Sent PWs to Death To Be Tried

LONDON, July 15—(AP)—Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, Nazi Commander in Chief in Norway during the German occupation, will be tried about July 29 on charges of responsibility in the killing of 14 British Commandos taken as prisoners of war, the United Nations War Crimes Commission announced Monday night.

Earlier the Commission disclosed that a group of 20 members of the Hitler Youth Movement will be tried for slaying five Allied airmen near Pforzheim in March, 1945. It was at Pforzheim that seven captured airmen were taken from a school cellar at midnight to a cemetery, where four were shot to death and three escaped. Later one was recaptured and slain, but the other two who escaped will be summoned as prosecution witnesses.

Von Falkenhorst's trial will be held at Celle, north of Hamburg, while the Hitler Youth members will be tried at Ricklinhausen probably on Aug. 14.

Von Falkenhorst, who surrendered to the United States 42d (Rainbow) Division in May, 1945, will be charged also with inciting his troops with to give no quarter to British Commandos and with turning Commandos over to Nazi Security Police for almost certain death, the announcement said.

Nazi military installations in Norway were a target for British Commando raids during the war.

Only World War II Veteran in the Race

A vote for him will be a vote for progressive, upright government!

Strong indications are that Capt. Lowe's two opponents have stooped to unfair tactics in the last stages of the campaign in their desperation to stop the tide of support for him that has been rapidly increasing within the last few days. He was visited by an officer of the War Department two hours before his scheduled speech for last Saturday night and advised he should restrict or cease his campaigning. The fact that this advice comes in the final stage of the campaign and not at the beginning of his campaign two months ago are extremely strong evidence of pressure being brought on the War Department by his opponents to try keep him from reaching the voters by radio and other mediums in the last and most critical part of his campaign. His friends will beat the politicians at their own game. Friends of a member of the Armed Forces may campaign to an unlimited extent for him. Army regulations clearly state that a member of the service may run for office, while each side is trying to spread rumors that Capt. Lowe entered this race at the instigation of the other side without giving a shred of proof to support the rumor. Capt. Lowe was not influenced in any way by any candidate in this race to run. He announced last February he would run in this primary. His seven years of college training, mainly at Mercer and Emory Universities, in government and law very strongly qualify him specifically for the duties of a congressman. The preparation of the other two candidates has been mainly in law, a subject seldom used by a congressman. A knowledge of government is of very much greater value to a congressman in creation of new laws than laws already passed. His major subject during 5 years in college was government. Veterans of all wars can depend upon him to promote successfully their interests in Congress. His five and a half years of active Army duty in key assignments make him the logical choice.

ALL IN THE GAME

JACK TROY

News—Coan Plays! The Southern League's leading outfielder of last season, Gil Coan, of Chattanooga, a .372 batter, finally broke into the Washington lineup again on Sunday.

Coan, leading off for the Senators, hit safely three times in the first game and two times in the second game. He was a big help in the Senators' two victories over the St. Louis Browns.

It's a relief to see Coan's name appear in the box scores. He has been a constant bench-rider since the season started.

Scouts passing through here during the Spring had picked Coan out as the best-looking rookie in the Florida training camps, including Hoot Evers.

Coan batted in 117 runs last season. Among other things, he rapped out 40 doubles, 28 triples and 16 home runs. He had everything, including enough speed to steal 37 bases.

Still, he rode the Washington bench.

It has been almost enough to give Joe Engel apoplexy. For Washington wouldn't return him to Chattanooga. Engel made a special trip to see Clark Griffith on his return from the Louis-Conn fight. He didn't get to first base. Coan remained on the Washington bench.

Could be that the Senators have made one of the major mistakes of the season in not taking advantage of Coan's ability during the first half of the American League pennant race?

Signal Practice Charles (Chuck) Dressen has a unique set of signals which he relays to the Brooklyn bench when he wants a pitcher to warm up.

The former Nashville manager, who's an invaluable assistant to Leo Durocher, is having plenty of practice in paging relief hurlers as the Dodgers struggle to hold their National League lead these days.

When a Brooklyn pitcher needs help, Dressen, coaching at third or first, turns to the bench and, by certain signs, indicates the pitcher who's to be sent to the bullpen.

For instance, if Dressen throws his arms wide, indicating girth, he's paging Hugh Casey, the fat man.

When Dressen raps himself smartly on the cap the bench knows he is calling for Ed Head.

Or if Dressen throws his head back and appears to emulate a sword swallower, he wants Ralph Branca, the spaghetti eater.

Another subtle signal is the hand to mouth gesture, indicating a pause for refreshments. It represents Hank Behrman—the beerman.

They all get it when he holds his nose. He wants Art Herring. The Dodgers can use a bit of comedy relief these days. The heat's on.

Nearly 2 Million Fans See Shows in Garden in Year

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP)—Close to two million people, the largest single group of them basketball fans, turned up at Madison Square Garden sports events during the fiscal year that ended May 31, 1946.

An announcement today by Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, President of the Eighth Avenue Sports Arena, said the Garden housed 5,298,544 people during the year that began June 1, 1945. Of these 1,914,423 were drawn by the sports standbys—basketball, boxing, hockey and track, in the order of attendance—and the others by such attractions as ice carnivals, the rodeo, the circus, political rallies, mass meetings, benefits, etc.

Basketball, with 42 dates, drew a total of 628,718, an average of almost 15,000. Of boxing's total of 615,210, 558,950 was drawn by the 46 professional cards, in spite of the fact there were only two championship fights—the featherweight scrap between Willie Pep and Phil Terranova and the bout in which Marty Servo won the welterweight title from Freddie (Red) Cochrane.

The New York Rangers of the National League and the amateur New York Rovers gave hockey a total of 586,680, with 387,335 the Rangers' share, and eight track meets brought out 83,815 customers.

Boxing's figure was a record season high for the Garden, topped by the crowd of 19,088 the night Rocky Graziano knocked out Servo in two rounds. For consistently packing them in, however, basketball was tops, for the 21 regular season double-headers drew 380,436, an average of 18,112 a night.

Crackers Assault Pels In First, 19-7, But Kick Away Second Contest, 9-8

Kinney Wins 7th In Row

By F. M. WILLIAMS
Constitution Staff Writer.

NEW ORLEANS, July 15—Atlanta gave a powerful demonstration of why she leads the Southern Association tonight by assaulting the Pelicans in the opener of a double-header, 19-7. And then the Crackers turned around and proved they didn't really mean it by kicking away the nightcap, 9-8, and losing a half-game to second-place Memphis. At that, the Crackers almost won it the last inning.

In the opener Shelby Kinney just coasted to his thirteenth victory against four defeats. It was the young right-hander's seventh successive victory.

Charley Glock, with four for four, including a home run, and Bill Goodman, with four for five, led the devastating attack of the Cuylermen, but Ted Cieslak drove home four runs with three hits. All Crackers except Pitcher Shelby Kinney obtained at least one safety.

The Crackers end their series here in a single game tomorrow night. Earl McGowan, ace left-hander, will take the hill against Bill Rogers, also a southpaw. Rogers is a New Orleans boy.

FIRST GAME

The Pelicans got to Kinney for a pair of runs in the first. Rue walked and Tobin beat out an infield hit that Hamner knocked down right at second but couldn't recover in time to make a play. Byam popped to left, but after Rue and Tobin had executed a double steal, Bruno was purposely walked. Lavigne singled to left, driving in Rue and Tobin. Hamner made a great play on Layden's grounder to deep short and turned it into a double play.

The Crackers picked up one in the second. Cieslak lived on Adams' error, went to second as Ellis rolled out to second and scored when Hamner singled into center.

Three Crackers came home in the third. Gearhart drew a walk to open the inning and went to second as Glock grounded to first. Goodman singled to left-center, scoring Gearhart. Cieslak popped to second, but Ellis singled to deep right with Goodman going to third. Ellis stole second and Goodman scored when Adams let Doyle's throw through him into center field. Heller drove a double against the scoreboard in center, scoring Ellis.

The Pelicans came back with three after two were out in their half of the fifth. Doyle opened the frame with a triple to the right centerfield fence. Danna batted for Shea and grounded to Kinney. Rue flied to short center, with Doyle holding third, but after getting two strikes on Tobin, Kinney walked him. Byam doubled to left center, scoring both Doyle and Byam. Bruno doubled against the right field wall and Byam came home.

The Crackers picked up four in the fifth. Glock singled to center and Goodman beat out a perfect bunt. Glock went to third and Goodman to second when Doyle threw into right field after finally fielding the ball. Cieslak tripled to deep right-center, scoring Glock and Goodman. Ellis flied to right, but Heller and Hamner drew walks to load the sacks. Ulisney flied to right and Cieslak scored after the catch, with Heller moving to third and Hamner to second. Shea uncorked a wild pitch and Heller came home.

Hamner opened the seventh with a double to right. Ulisney's fly to center fell for two bases when Layden slipped and fell and Hamner scored.

Glock's single to right, Goodman's sacrifice and Heller's one-base blow through the box got the Crackers run No. 13 in the eighth.

The Crackers scored six times in the ninth after two were out. Gearhart walked and Glock got his fourth straight hit, a single to right. Goodman beat out a roller to short for his fourth hit, scoring Gearhart. When Adams threw wild to first, Glock went to third. Cieslak singled to right, driving in Glock. It was Cieslak's fourth run batted across. Ellis drove a single into right center, and Goodman scored. Heller's pop fly back of second was dropped by Rue and both Cieslak and Ellis came home. Hamner dropped a double into right and Heller scored from first, making a great slide to get away from Doyle, who had the ball in plenty of time to make the put-out.

The Pels got two in their half of the ninth after two were out. Simononis batted for Jordan and singled to left and then Rue drove a liner over the leftfield fence for a home run.

SECOND GAME

Adkins' own error cost him a run in the first. Rue's drive down the third-base line was knocked down by Cieslak on a great play, but it was a single. Tobin's slow roller to second was another infield hit. Byam sacrificed. Simononis lined to Adkins, who threw into center field in an effort to double Tobin off second, and Rue raced across with a run.

The Cracker infield, perfect in the first game, came apart in the second inning of the second and the Pels scored five more unearned runs. After Layden popped to Hamner, Thoele lined a single off Cieslak's glove and stole second. Carrola struck out. Callahan hit to Hamner, who threw wild to first and Thoele scored on the error. Cieslak made a wild throw on Rue's grounder, Callahan going to third and Rue to second. Tobin walked to load the bases and Byam and Simononis hit singles to drive in two runners each.

Rue hit his second homer of the night in the fourth for the Pels' seventh run. No one was on base at the time.

The Crackers got to Callahan for four in the sixth. Gearhart doubled off Tobin's glove and Glock walked. Goodman singled to left and when Lavigne made a bad throw home, Gearhart scored. Cieslak's single to center drove Glock and Goodman home, the fifth and sixth runs batted across in the two games by the Cracker third baseman. Ellis rolled to first and Cieslak went to second. Heller grounded out, first to the pitcher, with Cieslak moving to third and scoring when Hamner singled to center.

Cracker errors got the Pels two more in their half of the sixth. After one was out, Tobin singled to center. He stole second and trotted on to third when Ferrara threw high into center field. Byam singled Tobin home. Byam was thrown out trying to steal, but Cieslak made a bad throw on Simononis' grounder, to keep the Pels at bat. Simononis stole second and scored when Lavigne singled to left.

The Crackers came within a run of tying the score in the seventh. Collins batted for Bowles and walked. Gearhart also walked. Glock forced Gearhart at second, but Goodman beat out an infield hit to load the bases. It was Goodman's seventh hit of the night. Cieslak's single to center scored Collins and Glock and made seven runs batted in for the third-sacker in the two games. Ellis greeted Danna, who came in for Callahan, with a two-run single to center, but on a three-and-two pitch, Heller struck out, and Ellis was thrown out at second.

SLAP-HAPPY SLUGGERS MEET—The pair who gave pitchers nightmares in Sunday's Cleveland-Boston double-header meet in the dressing room afterwards to exchange congratulations. The Red Sox's Ted Williams, left, who drove in eight runs in the first game with three homers and a single, grins at Manager Lou Boudreau, of the Indians, who in the opener belted out four doubles and a round-tripper.

Marietta To Play Two Atlanta Nines

Preacher Clackum's Marietta nine, winner of the first half pennant in the Kennesaw League, will play all its remaining league games at Marietta. Roswell will be the Marietta foe next Saturday at 3 p. m.

Whittier Mills will play at Marietta at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday, and White Provision will play in Marietta Friday night at the same time.

Hapless Borowy Is Sinatra Of Chicago's Wrigley Field

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—You'd think Hank Borowy, who has failed to finish 13 or 14 pitching starts for the Chicago Cubs, would have to slip in and out of Wrigley Field disguised as a peanut vendor or a program hawker.

On the contrary, the bland, righthander is something akin to a baseball Frank Sinatra, whose failure to muscle through opposing batters has engendered deep sympathy among the Bruin flock.

He is a bit of a hero, albeit with a reverse spin. Mgr. Charley Grimm, of the Cubs, found this out with burning ears Sunday when he removed harrassed Hank with just one putout between him and his first complete game since May 5.

Borowy's now famed pitching blister started to bleed in the ninth and it appeared the New York Giants might erase a 7-4 deficit. Grimm, judiciously, he thought, removed Hank in favor of Emil Kush.

Whereupon, some 32,000 Cub partisans booed Cholly lustily, one of the few times the popular Cub pilot has been heckled.

It made little difference that Kush struck out Sid Gordon to bank Borowy's third win against as many defeats, the crowd wanted to see Hank, a 21-game winner last season, come home.

Ironically, Grimm has been the biggest booster of the former New York Yankee star, who spearheaded the Cubs' pennant drive last season after his midseason arrival from Gotham. But so peeved was Grimm at the misunderstanding fans, that he declined to pose for clubhouse pictures with Borowy.

If Borowy's ailing finger—which first blistered early in the season and then made him quit July 3 after five innings against the Pirates—ever mends, Grimm feels the Cubs may repeat. "He is still one of the best low-ball pitchers in the league and he hasn't lost his stuff," said Charley.

Taciturn Borowy doesn't have much to say. But he brightened perceptibly when a bunch of youthful bleacherites presented him with a bracelet, engraved: "To our favorite pitcher, Hank Borowy."

Cato, Snipes Fight In Feature Tonight

Jerry Cato, Russell High football star, and Marietta's Bill Snipes will swap leather for the second straight week in the feature match on the weekly boxing card at the East Point Auditorium tonight. The first of eight bouts will get under way at 8:30 p. m.

Besides the main event principals, who battled in a rugged heavyweight engagement last week before a near-capacity crowd, such East Point favorites as Ock Rogers, Paul Roberts and Don Cagle will be on the card. Harry Bailey, James Banks and Harold Bannister, all of East Point, will engage Birel Hughes, Bellwood; Howard Ivy, Boys Club, and Charles Turner, Boys Club, respectively.

More Midget Races Slated Thursday

The railings of the one-fifth-mile midget auto race track at Lakewood Park, which took a terrific beating in the initial race program last week, have been replaced for the next races Thursday night, starting at 7:30.

Not only did the midget cars crash into the railings at many points but one driver, Jimmy Moore, of Pensacola, took part of the railing with him, the timber jutting from the radiator resembling the lance of a crusader of the Middle Ages.

Bernard Fox, the Fort Benning paratrooper, who had tough luck in last week's races, has repaired his car and will be back Thursday night, along with 20 or so other daredevils.

15-Year-Old Tops Juniors With Fine 70

COLUMBUS, July 15—Shooting a two-under-par 70 on the Columbus Country Club course, 15-year-old Billy Key, of Columbus, paced the field of 33 golfers who qualified here this afternoon for the Georgia State Junior Golf Tourney which gets under way Tuesday morning. Young Key posted a par 36 on the first nine and then came back to score a 34 on the back nine.

Eight cities—Athens, Brunswick, Atlanta, Macon, Dalton, Griffin, Augusta and Columbus, are represented in the tourney.

The only Atlanta entry to make the championship flight was Harold Spears, Jr., who tied for the runner-up spot with Pete Ferris, of Griffin, each having a 79.

The first-round play is scheduled to get under way Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, with the second round being run off in the afternoon. The semifinals will be played Wednesday, the finals Thursday.

The championship flight, with the qualifying scores: Billy Key, Columbus, 70, vs. Warren Herron, Dalton, 83; Vaughn L. Maxwell, Jr., Augusta, 80, vs. Bobby Mathis, Dalton, 87; Pete Ferris, Griffin, 79, vs. Donald Schumacher, Athens, 87; Dana Hawkins, Dalton, 83, vs. Bill Young, Columbus, 83; Harold Spears, Jr., Atlanta, 79, vs. Warren Sims, Dalton, 84; Sonny George, Brunswick, 81, vs. Billy Mitchell, Dalton, 87; Robert Twilliey, Griffin, 80, vs. Allen Bates, Macon, 84, and Bill Rambo, Columbus, 83, vs. George Steliges, Macon.

Lee and Massey To Battle Friday

The unpredictable Daffy Don Lee, now weighing 293 pounds, will tangle with Al Massey in what should easily be the feature match on Friday night's all-star heavyweight wrestling card at the City Auditorium.

Daffy Dan, who hails from Houston, Texas, and is one of the roughest grapplers to show here in many years, says he will give Massey a real shellacking in this match. It is his first start as a main-go contestant in some time, and he hopes to make the most of it. Massey has an imposing record locally and naturally will have more at stake than the big blond playboy. Promoter Paul Jones believes the match will be one of the hardest fought of the current season.

The match will be a one fall to a finish affair as will the Jim Cofield versus Nick Carter bout, which shares equal billing on the program.

In the other matches, Johnny Long, the sensational junior heavyweight matman, clashes with Jack Hader and Gene Blackley, the gentleman from Goose Creek, Texas, battles Billy Hickman, the clever 200-pounder from Knoxville, Tenn.

Buddy Young Pitches No-Hit Game Here

Buddy Young pitched a no-hit baseball game for Troop 22 against the Capitol View Midgets yesterday at Mozley Park in a regularly scheduled City League game. Troop 22 won, 13-0. Young allowed no walks, and the only player to reach first base got there on an infield error.

SPORTS

Cards Beat Dodgers Again; Charge Within 1 1-2 Games of Lead

The pennant hopes of the charging St. Louis Cardinals grew brighter still last night as they continued their hammering at the tottering Brooklyn Dodgers, winning the third straight game of their crucial series, 10-4, behind the expert pitching of Harry Brecheen. Hugh Casey, the starting Dodger flinger, was kayoed in the first inning as the Cards moved to within a game and a half of first place.

The onrushing Chicago Cubs, playing heads up ball all the way, whipped the New York Giants, 3-1, Monday at Chicago in a battle of singles to score their sixth triumph in their last eight contests.

Outhit nine to seven with all safeties strictly one-basers, the champion Cubs made three of their blows count for two runs in the second inning off Lefty Dave Koslo and put two together in the seventh off Reliefer Ken Trinkle for their final tally.

The Giants, although they touched veteran Hank Wyse freely, were unable to score until the eighth frame when three successive hits with none out by Bill Rigney, Willard Marshall and Mickey Witek produced their sole marker. Wyse, a 22-game winner last season, clinched his 10th victory this year by getting big Johnny Mize to fly out and forcing Walker Cooper to ground into a double play.

The Cincinnati Reds took an hour and 35 minutes to defeat the Philadelphia Phils, 4-2. John Hetki, who won his third game of the year, was aided by Teammate Grady Hatton's three-run homer in the fifth at Cincinnati.

Three runs scored in the first inning gave the Boston Braves a 3-to-2 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates in a night game at Pittsburgh. The victory enabled the Braves to remain in a fourth-place tie with Cincinnati.

Pafko Returns

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—Andy Pafko, regular center fielder of the Chicago Cubs, defending National League champions, is ready to resume playing.

THIS'LL STOP TED

Put a Player In Bleachers, Is Lyons' Idea

PHILADELPHIA, July 15—(AP) Ted Lyons, Manager of the visiting Chicago White Sox today gave his opinion of the weakness of the Cleveland Indians' fielding strategy against Ted Williams.

"Boudreau didn't put anyone in the rightfield bleachers," the Sox pilot said succinctly.

The Cleveland Manager-Shortstop on Sunday moved all but one of his fielders to the right of second base in an attempt to stop the Boston Red Sox centerfielder.

Herb Pennock, General Manager of the Phils, questioned the Indians tactics.

"Might cut down on extra-base hits the first few times," Pennock declared. "But if all the teams use it, I think Williams will start popping balls over that leftfield fence.

"Anyway, I'm glad that boy's not in our league," Pennock concluded.

Jones Sparks Palmetto To Lopsided Victory

Jones banged a single, double, triple and home run Sunday as Palmetto lambasted Rice's Cafe, 14-9, in a Dixie League game. Jackson, with three for three, and Reeves, with three for four, were other leading hitters. Kelly's four for five paced the losers.

Tigers Beat Chandler, 2-0 On Hutchinson's 2-Hitter

Chicago Sox Buy Frankie Hayes

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox announced Monday the Cleveland Indians had accepted their waiver bid for Catcher Frankie Hayes, but that it was uncertain "when or whether" the veteran receiver would report to the White Sox.

General Manager Leslie M. O'Connor said Manager Ted Lyons was attempting to contact Hayes at his home in Medford, N. J. O'Connor said the White Sox were the only American League club to claim Hayes for the $7,500 waiver price. The waiver deadline on Hayes was reached Monday morning.

"President Bill Veeck, of Cleveland, informed us he has wired the American League office, confirming that the deal was closed," O'Connor said.

It was reported that Hayes, who holds the major league record for consecutive games caught at 312, was reluctant to join the White Sox because of salary differences.

The White Sox recently waived Catcher Tom Jordan to Cleveland, presumably setting the stage for the Hayes' deal.

Freddie Hutchinson pitched the Detroit Tigers to within one and one-half games of the second-place New York Yankees last night by blanking the Yanks, 2-0, on two hits, at Yankee Stadium.

Hutchinson, in hanging up his fifth triumph and second white-wash job before a crowd of 39,893, pounded out two hits himself, one of which figured in the scoring, thus collecting as many safeties as the Yanks were able to garner off his hurling.

The Washington Senators defeated the St. Louis Browns last night for the third time in a row, with Mickey Haefner outpitching Tex Shirley for a 4-2 verdict, at Washington.

The Philadelphia Athletics blasted the Chicago White Sox, 12 to 0, in an arclight game in which Phil Marchildon limited the Sox to two hits. A cool-weather crowd estimated at 5,000 saw the Mackmen collect 13 hits at Philadelphia.

Donalsonville Leads

House-Okayed Rail Benefit Bill Awaits Senate

WASHINGTON, July 15—(AP)—A House-approved bill broadening the benefits of the Railroad Retirement and Unemployment Insurance Acts awaits possible action by the Senate this week.

Approved 11 to 9 by the Interstate Commerce Committee, the measure apparently is likely to provoke controversy on the floor. Railroads contend it would expand benefits to employes of other concerns doing business with the rail lines, such as pickup and delivery service. The Railway Labor Executives Association is supporting the measure.

Disability payments would be extended to some workers who do not now receive them, with annuities for widows until they reach 65 or remarry.

The measure would increase retirement taxes five percent, the increase to be shared by the employes and carriers.

said that after the first two days it wasn't so bad.

At first, they said, they were separated and Harrison was locked in a dungeon-like cellar. His wife was kept in a tiny guard room with a Russian soldier standing sentry at the door.

"It was awful at first," said Mrs. Harrison. "Then they let us be together and treated us fine. After that I wasn't scared any more, just anxious to be freed."

"I was sure they would shoot us sooner or later," she said. "We spent the first two days in a house at Oranienburg about 20 miles north of Berlin and they were the worst.

"The Russians separated us and I didn't know where my husband was. An armed Russian sentry was continually in the room with me day and night. He stayed sitting in a chair—I on the edge of the bed. The bed had no sheets or blankets. I didn't sleep. I couldn't eat."

Harrison said the worst part was that they were given no clean clothes.

"I had to throw my socks away when they got so strong even I couldn't stand them," he said.

Harrison said the Russians asked him hundreds of questions and invariably replied after each answer: "You liar."

will be used to modernize the Southern's present streamliners, "The Southerner" and "The Tennessean," which were placed in service in 1941.

"The Tennessean," Trains No. 45 and 46, streamlined coach and sleeping car train, operating between Washington and Memphis, will also be newly equipped. As a result, some of the streamlined equipment now being used in "The Tennessean," as well as in "The Southerner," will be diverted to other Southern Railway trains.

Forty-nine of the new streamlined cars—enough cars for four trains—will be assigned to "The Crescent," which operates between New York and Washington over the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Washington and Atlanta over the Southern, between Atlanta and Montgomery over the Atlanta and West Point Railroad, and between Montgomery and New Orleans over the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

Twenty-eight of the new cars will be all-room sleeping cars, by means of which "The Crescent" will be converted into a modern all-room train without open-section sleeping accommodations. Other equipment will include four smartly styled combination room-bar-lounge cars, and five railway post office cars.

Fifty-seven of the cars, enough for four trains, will be assigned to "The Royal Palm," which operates between the Great Lakes region and Florida via Cincinnati and the Southern Railway System. North of Cincinnati the train is handled by the New York Central; south of Jacksonville it is handled by the Florida East Coast.

The equipment will include 20 all-room sleeping cars, 16 coaches, four room-bar-lounge-observation cars, four lounge-cafe-coaches, four diners, four baggage-coaches, and five railway post office cars.

Principal cities served by "The Royal Palm" include Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Detroit, Toledo, Cincinnati, Lexington, Ky.; Chattanooga, Atlanta, Macon, Valdosta, Jacksonville and Miami.

Eleven new lightweight all-room sleeping cars will be assigned to "The Tennessean," which operates between Washington and Memphis.

The remaining 30 new cars—19 coaches, six lounge-bar-coaches and five diners, all of the latest design—are being shared between "The Tennessean" and "The Southerner."

The new cars being assigned to these two trains will replace much of their present equipment, which will be used in other trains operated by the Southern.

Mihailovic and 10 Others Sentenced to Firing Squad

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 15—(UP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic, leader of Yugoslav guerrilla fighters from the Spring of 1941 until the Fall of 1943, and 10 other prominent Yugoslavs were found guilty of treason, collaboration with the Germans and war crimes Monday and sentenced to be shot.

The remaining 13 of 24 defendants who had been on trial since June 10 were sentenced to terms of 18 months to 20 years in prison at forced labor.

Mihailovic and seven others of the condemned men (two are out of the country and were tried in absentia) are expected to be shot in a military prison with 48 hours, as Yugoslav law provides. There is no appeal, though their attorneys may seek a pardon from the National Parliament. No one believed they would be pardoned.

UNFLINCHING AT VERDICT

Mihailovic, red bearded, bespectacled, five feet eight inches tall, and powerfully built, stood straight and unflinching when the three-man military tribunal pronounced sentence. He was wearing the wrinkled, mixed brown uniform without insignia that he had worn since the trial started.

The tribunal devoted an hour to the Mihailovic verdict. It found him guilty of eight specific charges, including collaboration, inciting civil war, committing outrages against the people and weakening the Partisan and Allied war effort. The verdict brought in repeated references to Mihailovic's contacts with American and British liaison agents during the war.

But it was not until two hours later, after the President of the Tribunal had read the verdicts concerning all of the defendants, that sentences were pronounced.

Spectators, who had been interrupting the trials with shouts of "Death to the traitor," were provoked when they learned that civilian defendants would die "soldiers' deaths" before the firing squad.

CHEER TRIBUNAL

Their irritation did not outlast the session, however, and as the defendants were being led away, they resoundingly cheered the Tribunal. Some climbed upon their chairs to get a last look at Mihailovic.

A member of the Tribunal later explained that its military nature allowed it no leeway in methods of execution.

The Government was expected to begin extradition proceedings for those tried in absentia, on the ground that they now are convicted criminals.

Defense attorneys tried three times to get the Tribunal to call American fliers who had bailed out over Yugoslavia to testify in Mihailovic's defense. Two requests were refused and one was not answered.

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP)—Discouraged holders sold stocks today and, in a notably "thin" market, leading issues were depressed 1 to around 6 points in the sharpest average drop since last month.

There was little outstanding news to account for the liquidation. Brokers attributed selling mainly to further uncertainty regarding price controls, possibility of economic unsettlement in coming months, spreading consumers' strikes, threats of more labor rifts and the "congestion" of listed securities due to recent heavy offerings of new stocks and bonds. Last week's stiffening of call money rates again was a factor.

Selected favorites made a feeble early attempt at recovery. There was no follow through and the downward trek got under way by midday with volume expanding. Some support arrived near the close and extreme losses were reduced here and there. Transfers of 1,170,000 shares compared with 1,130,000 on Friday's reaction and were the largest since July 1.

The bond market operated mostly on the losing end today as light offerings in rails found new takers except at concessions of fractions to more than a point.

Backward in the curb were Colonial Airlines, American Gas, Electric Bond & Share, Fansteel, Textron and Catalin. Creole Petroleum held a modest plus mark. Turnover here was 400,000 shares versus 330,000 in the preceding session.

SOUTHEASTERN AREA HOG MARKET

THOMASVILLE, July 15—(USDA)—Major plants located at Albany, Columbus, Moultrie, Thomasville and Tifton, Ga.; Dothan, Ala., and Jacksonville and Tallahassee, Fla., reported about 1,500 hogs, practically all were directs. Quotations for local offerings were 50 cents to mostly $1.00 higher at $17.00 for medium to choice barrows and gilts scaling 130 pounds and more. Lightweights were generally quoted at $16.50. Sows showed little change, with quotations for medium and good kinds mostly $15.25.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 15—A price record since 1919 on live hogs was established at Union Stockyards in early sales today, with good and choice kinds getting $18.75 a hundred pounds and some being held for more.

The new high topped the $18.50 figure set July 1, which was the highest price since 1919 when best pork animals went to $23.60 a hundred pounds. Early cattle and sheep quotations also were strong.

Today's high hog trade resulted from sharply lower receipts than a week ago. Ten thousand head reached the sales pens today and 4,000 came in direct to packers, compared with 19,000 and 6,500 respectively last Monday.

Cattle receipts were slightly reduced from a week ago, but still were second highest in numbers since last October. There were 20,000 head received for sale today and 500 came in direct to packers, compared with 22,000 salables a week ago.

An estimated 4,000 head of salable sheep came in, the highest since July 1 when there were 5,000.

At 12 leading Western markets hog receipts totaled 95,800 estimated, compared with 107,035 a week ago and 60,125 a year ago.

Cattle totaled 96,600 today, 103,603 last Monday, and 72,172 a year ago and sheep were 50,300, 22,055, and 41,872, respectively.

NEW YORK, July 15—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced to 23-year highs on heavy trade and outside buying today with the July, 1946, delivery advancing the permissible $5 a bale limit.

Growing trade sentiment that price control will be eliminated, the tightening cotton supply situation, and approval of the loan to Great Britain which forecast substantial British cotton purchases here supplied impetus to the advance. In later dealings active deliveries sold off more than $1 a bale from the best levels on profit taking and hedging.

Mills were heavy buyers both against textile orders and inventory protection in face of short crop prospects.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Prominent Local Families Vacation on Lake Ahmic

Away up in the wilds of Canada, a group of prominent Atlantans are defying the sizzling heat with not the slightest thought of any discomfort. Ann Bolling (Mrs. Hughes, Jr.) Spalding, with her children, Ann and Hughes, III, and her sister, "Teets" (Mrs. Richard) Denny, accompanied by her children, Betsy and Richard, have joined their mother, Mrs. John Graham, of Rome, at her Sumher cottage on Lake Ahmic, near Magnetawan, Ontario. And, to quote the family, "the spot, which is about as far away from civilization as is possible, is just heaven on earth."

This picturesque cottage has been in the Graham family for many years; in fact, almost as far back as Ann and "Teets" can remember. It is situated right on the lake and the only mode of transportation to and from the surrounding country is by boat. Each day, or whenever the family is in need of groceries, they set sail, either in a motorboat or a canoe, for Magnetawan, and when the marketing is done, away they glide along the blue waters for home.

Magnetawan is only 40 miles distant from the birthplace of the Dionne quintuplets. Ann has driven over to see them numbers of times and has watched them grow from tiny babies to bobby-soxers.

A colony of congenial friends from Baltimore and Boston also Summer on Lake Ahmic, and there is never a dull moment, with fishing and sailing, swimming and canoeing, and other enjoyable sports for amusement.

Hughes is counting the days between now and July 27 when he will join his wife and children for a two-week holiday on Lake Ahmic. At the conclusion of his trip, he will bring all of the family home with him.

WEDDING BELLS TO RING IN OCTOBER

She is one of society's most charming and popular blond beauties, a member of a large family, and recently received a degree from one of the nation's leading colleges.

He comes from the Midwest and has paid ardent court to the lovely Atlantan since she was a member of the freshman class at college. He has been a freqeunt visitor here and his next visit is scheduled for the last weekend in this month, at which time the formal announcement of their engagement will be made.

But Atlanta's loss will be the Midwestern city's gain, for after their marriage in October they plan to live in his home city.

Can you name them?

PATRICIA JONES CHRISTENED

A group of Atlanta relatives and friends motored to Dalton on Sunday to attend the christening of small Patricia Dutton Jones, six-month-old daughter of Tom and Peggy (Dutton) Jones. The ceremony was held at 4:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. W. Dendy officiating, and was followed by tea at the Joneses' lovely new home.

Leading the Atlanta procession, of course, were the baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Dutton, and her maternal uncle, "Bud" (Wilmer, Jr.) Dutton, who stood as her godfather. Her godmother is Louise Stumberg, of Tallassee, Ala., who spent the war years as a Link trainer at Atlanta's Naval Air Base, but who is now in France studying foreign government. Accordingly, Mary Parham Woolfolk acted in her stead by proxy.

Patricia wore for her baptism an heirloom dress belonging to her mother's cousin, Mrs. Walter Scott Burke, Jr., of Hudson, Ohio. Mrs. Burke, the former Miriam Rust, of London, is one of England's attractive war brides who has recently arrived in the States. Included in her dowry was the beautiful long christening robe of exquisite handmade lace over white satin, which she and members of her family for generations have worn for their baptism. When she learned of Patricia's christening, she graciously offered the dress for the ceremony. The baby also wore as an ornament a tiny gold locket given her by her paternal aunt, Mrs. Clark Jones.

Other Atlantans present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reese, Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, Mrs. Homer Carmichael, Mrs. Pichegru Woolfolk and Mary Parham Woolfolk.

COLLEYS HOLD FAMILY REUNION

Mary (Mrs. Stuart) Colley took time out recently from helping to elect Jimmie Carmichael as Georgia's next Governor, and went home to Grantville for a family reunion. It was the first time she had had all of her family together since 1942, and you can imagine it was a gala occasion.

Henrietta Colley (Mrs. Cheney) Joseph and her young son, Cheney, Jr., came down from Ann Arbor, Mich., where her doctor husband is attending the University of Michigan. Allen Colley, who fought with the Army on Iwo Jima, came from Princeton, where he is now enrolled as a student, while his brother, Stuart, Jr., who was in the South Pacific for two years, came up from Albany, where he is now associated with radio station WALB.

Completing the party was, of course, Stuart, Sr., who, according to Mary, was beside himself with happiness because his small grandson was his constant and inseparable companion!

Milady's Sleeves Hold Spotlight In Fall Collection, Says Authority

By WINIFRED WARE,
Atlanta Constitution Fashion Editor.

NEW YORK, July 15—Sleeves carry the major portion of this season's fashion ideas, according to Miss Eleanor Lambert, fashion authority representing the New York Dress Institute, who summarized the trends in the opening meeting of the Press Fashion Shows this morning.

Two types of sleeves will be observable in all principal collections, one, a sleeve that is reminiscent of the medieval period, and one distinctly Elizabethan in feeling. The medieval sleeve is monastic or ecclesiastic. It is a sleeve that fits into an ample armhole then flares softly to full length, where it often has a turnback cuff. The Elizabethan sleeve is a modified leg-of-mutton, a sleeve fitted snugly to well above the elbow, where it then has a large puff usually of taffeta or of stiffened material attaching to the shoulder.

Winifred Ware, Fashion Editor for The Atlanta Constitution, is attending the New York Fashion Press Institute which is holding its semi-annual meeting this week.

A long torso look is important fashion news, too. Often the long torso is achieved by means of an almost tight-fitting basque extending to the hips. Unpressed pleats, gathers, drapery or other fullness usually occurs in the skirt where the basque attaches, giving a rounded, ample look through the hipline. The newest silhouette can best be visualized by picturing the figure smoothly fitted from the neck to a point well below the waistline, the elongated torso, and sleeves puffing out from smooth, ample shoulders.

The skirt should be worn longer for best results with this silhouette. Actually skirts are not made longer because Government regulations have not been relaxed to permit greater use of materials. But Miss Lambert pointed out that American women have been wearing their skirts shorter than the law allows and a longer skirt than we are accustomed to will be the fashionable skirt this Fall and Winter.

In necklines anything goes, from a high built-up neck to drop shoulders, round necks and what have you. Cowl necklines and hoods are importantly used in many collections. Hoods sometimes attach to a dress and when not worn over the head they are thrown back to form a cowl in the back.

There is a marked return of rich fabrics in the new collections, brocades, damasks, taffetas and satins bespeak a new elegance in both evening and daytime clothes. Woolen often combines with taffeta or satin to further the Elizabethan look.

Some hemlines will be uneven, but these are seen mostly in cocktail and formal gowns.

This "portrait" gown, reminiscent of the Renaissance period, is from the Autumn collection of Ben Reig. In "antique bronze" brocade, the dress has a halter decolletage and a swag drape bustle. The tiny jacket to be slipped on for less formal occasions, crosses to one side and fastens with a single button.
WINIFRED WARE, Fashion Editor.

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Helen's husband began to tell tall tales which she knew were wild exaggerations. They irritated her, but she failed to realize that they were his final attempt to avoid divorce. Wives should read this case carefully.

Case K-246: Helen E., 26, is an efficient businesswoman who has been married two years.

"I love my husband, and have supported him entirely during the past 18 months while he has been out of a job," she said. "But there is one thing about him which irritates me terribly.

"He is a braggart. He boasts and tells fanciful tales that I know aren't true. Probably it bothers me worse because I have been brought up to speak the truth. Exaggeration is distasteful to me. So when my husband stretches the truth so unmercifully, I feel as if I could scream.

"His mother tells me that he always had a vivid imagination, as she calls it, and has been inclined to brag, but I have noticed it much worse in the past year.

"Maybe I am just growing more sensitive on this score so that I am aware of it more, but it does seem that he has grown more inclined to exaggerate.

"Dr. Crane, what makes him want to stretch the truth so much? Is he just a show-off type?"

Yes, he is the show-off type, but so are we all! Why does he show this abnormal braggadocio? We must go back into his childhood to understand his personality fully.

I learned that he was sickly as a boy, so he was deprived of many of the normal exciting experiences of youngsters. He had to dream of his adventures.

Like Robert Louis Stevenson, therefore, he obtained his romance and excitement via his imagination. He developed the habit of exaggeration and became accustomed to overstatement.

BOLSTERING HIS EGO

Helen's husband is now deflated in ego because he is out of a job. His wife, who is efficiency personified, has thus become the breadwinner of the family. But he feels the affront to his vanity very keenly, as would any normal husband.

Furthermore, he subconsciously dreads that she may begin to lose her admiration and respect for him. He loves her, so he wants her to continue enamoured of him, to look up to him, to be thrilled by his masculine dominance.

But he has little tangible evidence of his superiority, owing to her being the breadwinner. In short, reality is so belittling to his desired self-esteem that he reverts to the childish method of coloring his environment by use of imagination.

Thus, he tells tall tales that make him sound like a "big shot" but which Helen immediately sees through. He is kidding himself along; and hoping that he also fools Helen.

MEN MUST FEEL SUPERIOR

Men absolutely must feel superior to women or they will seldom make good sweethearts or husbands. The wise wife realizes this fact and may set the stage or manipulate the performance even while she ostensibly stays back in the wing as an apparently inconspicuous member of the show.

In fact, it is a mark of social intelligence when a wife of superior ability can tactfully play second fiddle to her husband, and let him feel that he is the important member of the family. Too many wives inadvertently offend their husbands in this very dangerous spot—their masculine vanity.

The best antidote for the boasting which troubles Helen would be a good job for her husband. Lacking that, she must tactfully praise him: bolster up his masculine ego, and ardently show her admiration for him.

She should lean upon him for advice, even if she must affect a helplessness which she doesn't feel.

Beauty Expert Goes To Bat For Average Girl

By IDA JEAN KAIN

According to Dr. Wilson M. Krogman, anthropologist, the average American woman is fat, flat-chested, knock-kneed, has ham-like thighs and "waddles" when she walks!

I don't know where the professor gets his figures. To begin with, fat women are rarely flat-chested. They don't even have a leaning in that direction. And how could a woman with knock-knees "waddle" when she walked? Unquestionably the doctor's bifocals are out of adjustment.

He didn't mention age, just lumped all ages together. According to statistics, Miss Average College Girl has a pretty nice figure. She is 5' 5" tall, weighs a neat 125 pounds and has these measurements: bust 34", waist 26", hips 37.4". Nothing fat, flat or wabbly there.

Measurements based on 10,420 figures from eight different states show the average American woman is 5' 3" tall, weighs 133½ pounds and has these measurements: Bust 35½", waist 29" and hips 38." The average American woman has a fair to middling figure.

There is room for improvement, we'll admit. But with a few changes the average woman could have a fine figure. By slimming a couple of inches off the waist, and one or two off the hips, the girls could make the professor change his tune to a long, low whistle.

Here's a plan that would do it: cut bread to three slices a day, leave off all pastry in accordance with the wheat-saving plan. This will shave off enough calories to bring about a gradual weight loss of eight to 10 pounds. That's about the amount of weight the average woman could lose to advantage.

Then three easy exercises, taken for six minutes a day, will whittle the middle measurement and slim down the hips.

To get at the criss-cross muscles that band the middle of the figure, do a stretch-twist. Lying flat on back on floor, cross one leg over, touching toes to the floor on opposite side, and pull up with one arm, p-u-l-l. Repeat, crossing over with the other leg and pulling up with the arm. Stretch-twist-pull about 10 times.

Prop your feet up on a low bench, press small of back against floor, and alternately bring knees vigorously to chest. Later stretch arms up on floor as knee is brought to chest. That slims the middle.

Then shear off hips. . . . Lying on side, swing legs in a scissors-like motion for 10 counts. Reverse sides, lift legs off floor just enough for clearance, and swing 10 more counts.

STUFFED BAKED FRANKFURTERS

3 tablespoons shortening or margarine
3 tablespoons grated onion
3 tablespoons finely chopped celery
2 cups toasted 1-2-inch bread cubes
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
3-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-3 cup water
12 frankfurters

Melt shortening in a skillet; add onion and celery and saute until tender. Pour over bread cubes, adding parsley, salt and papper. Blend together, then add water and mix well. Make a lengthwise slit in each frankfurter and open. Spread stuffing on cut side of 6 frankfurters with a toothpick. Bake in a greased shallow pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. Serve with Mustard Sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

MUSTARD SAUCE:

1 tablespoon shortening or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
3 tablespoons sugar
1-3 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
1-3 cup vinegar
1-3 cup mayonnaise

Melt shortening in top of a double boiler. Add flour. Cook one minute. Add mustard, sugar, water, salt and horseradish, stirring constantly. Add vinegar and mix well. Cook 10 minutes. Cool slightly, then whip in mayonnaise. Yield: 1 1-4 cups mustard sauce.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Take Your Own Chance By Asking Her for Date

You've had your eye on that girl at school. And to you she looks lovely. You haven't the foggiest idea, of course, how she feels about you. But you've heard plenty from your side-kick about how he likes her! It's plenty! You didn't give away your own secret. You locked your own admiration for her deep in your profundity. But you do like her. And it's causing you problems.

You'd like to ask her for dates, of course. You'd like to walk right up to her and let her know that you like her. You'd like nothing better than to have her like you. But there's your boy friend. That makes it awkward.

GET SET, GO!

There's something rather funny about two lads liking the same girl and doing nothing about her. Both of you sitting back and admiring her from a distance. Jockeying for position . . . but both of you standing stock still! At this point you have as much right as your boy friend to ask that girl for dates.

But maybe your boy friend has already made some moves in her direction. Perhaps he's already had a couple of dates with her . . . he thinks she likes him, at least she acted as if she did. Perhaps he thinks he's staged a claim, and the girl is his.

If they're crazy about each other . . . you stay out of it. If they're going steady, don't you barge in and break things up. That will happen of its own accord before too long, so hold your fire and wait. If your side-kick has a complete monopoly on her time and attention . . . she just won't have any time left over for you. So there's no point in straining at the leash.

If she doesn't date any other boys . . . just your pal . . . you keep hands off. But in my opinion a girl is never completely lassoed until some boy puts a wedding ring on her finger! Until she has signed on the dotted line, her eyes will wander and her curiosity will be aroused by other boys. Her love isn't fixed deep and rockbound. Her affections will scatter like dry leaves before a wind. She might just blow in your direction!

MAKE A MOVE YOURSELF

So, instead of worrying what your boy friend might think if you dated up the girl he likes . . . what would she think? Would she like the idea? She might! If you aren't poison . . . if you think up amusing things to do on dates . . . she might say "yes." If she accepts your invitation, it's because she'd like to spend the evening with you. It's not because you're a friend of her friend.

NEWS ABOUT GEORGIA

Compiled from Constitution State News Reports
By LEE ROGERS

Universal suffrage and a big turn-out on election day is wholesome for democracy, but it gets right embarrassing to the Democratic Executive Committee when such a vote threatens to clean out the treasury, which is about what is going to happen in Columbus, according to Joe Chapman, Chairman; if there is a run-off,—well, Chapman says they just don't think of that possibility.

Jack Watkins, of Thomasville, won top honors at the second annual State Band Camp at Milledgeville; Sonny Bryan, of Albany, was second . . . Amos Tift, son of the founder of Tifton, was credited yesterday with saving the life of Martha Lou Simmons, 12, of Route 4, Tifton, when she swam too far from shore and couldn't get back; Tift heard her calls for help, dived in, and found the girl about three feet under water and brought her to safety . . . Wallace Crouch is new head of the Albany Legion . . . Prices ranged from $100 to $300 for 39 head of registered Hereford and Polled Hereford cattle sold at Moultrie.

Folks from the country will appreciate this: Henry McMorris, down near Moultrie, was disturbed because his cow was late coming home. An extensive hunt located her. She had swished her tail so hard around a tree that it had tied itself in a knot so tight she couldn't get it free. McMorris chopped the tree down. He reports the flies had given the cow fits for approximately two hours while she couldn't swish them off.

J. L. Hardy has assumed duties at Moultrie as Assistant County Agent. . . A death from typhoid was reported in Dougherty County during June.

Grady County banks report deposits up $750,000 over last year. . . Abraham Baldwin College, Tifton, is to get 25 buildings from Spence Field, Moultrie, which the Air Corps has declared surplus.

St. Joseph's School for Boys at Sharon will soon close, and the property will be offered for sale. Funds from the sale are to be used in building a modern and more centrally located parochial school somewhere in the State. Young men from nearly every State in the United States and from neighboring countries attended the school. Across the street from the school is the skeleton of what was the first Catholic Church in Georgia. Personnel from the school will be sent to other Catholic institutions in Georgia.

The Troup County Democratic Executive Committee has decided the three men who receive the highest number of votes in tomorrow's election for State Legislature will be officially nominated. . . . K. E. Cornell, General Field Representative of the American Red Cross, visited LaGrange recently to confer with Red Cross officials of that city. . . . As the temperature at Rome soared into the high 90s over the weekend, operators of the ice plant discovered Floyd County citizens were buying the ice faster than it could be made. Plant managers said it requires 48 hours to freeze a block of ice.

Chaplain Albert C. Wildman, Chief of Chaplains at Oliver General Hospital at Augusta, will report soon for duty in the Pacific. . . . Plans are being made for reorganization of the famous Barnesville Blues, Lamar County National Guard unit. . . .

Miami's Jews Picket British Vice Consul

MIAMI, Fla., July 15—(AP)—More than 200 Jewish volunteers began picketing the British vice consulate in downtown Miami at noon Monday in protest against Britain's refusal to permit 100,000 European Jews to emigrate to Palestine.

Signs proclaiming "British Tyrant," "Attlee—Aren't 6,000,000 Jewish dead enough?" and "America 1776—Palestine 1946" were carried by the pickets.

A protest mass meeting sponsored by 18 Zionist organizations was scheduled for Monday night, with a list of speakers headed by Dean Howard Le Sourd, of Boston University, on Sabbatical leave, who is a Director of the American Palestine Committee.
